Ulster County Schools Expect Few Problems During Fuel Oil Crisis

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

While an energy crisis is said to be upon us, and people in some parts of the nation are concerned about how they will keep their homes warm during the upcoming winter months, children in Ulster County apparently have little cause to worry — or even hope — that schools will be forced to close down due to a heating oil shortage.

Most public school officials around the county say they anticipate no problems in getting the various types of heating oil needed to keep the school buildings warm. Some, however, express concern because of widely reported possible shortages.

"We have contracts for oil delivery for the next year from two different companies," said Dr. Richard Schleiter, associate superintendent for business management at Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

Schleiter explained that the two companies supply different types of fuel required to heat the various buildings in the school district, and that the district is on an automatic replenishment schedule to assure winter warmth for the youngsters.

"We're not anticipating any problems at this time," Schleiter said.

The Ellenville school system also has contracts for heating oil, but Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden expressed some concern.

"I'm concerned, but I have no real reason to be except from reports in the news media of a possible shortage," Hayden said.

In recent days some government officials have been calling for rationing of heating oil on a geographical basis, presumably to assure an adequate supply for all areas of the nation. But even if such rationing goes into effect Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton has predicted "there are going to be people who are going to be cold."

Special

A majority of the schools in Ulster County have contracts — or at least letters of intent — with heating oil suppliers which virtually guarantee continued supply throughout the winter.

Many of the schools, including Kingston, Rondout Valley and Onteora entered into those contracts after going through a cooperative bidding procedure which was handled by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County. Under this procedure, schools which so desired submitted anticipated requirements for the year to BOCES, and suppliers submitted bids for the fuel for the districts. Each district then decided on its own whether or not to accept the bid.

At the time bids were opened it was indicated by the suppliers that they could fill all the needs for the districts, according to Walter Braisted, administrative assistant with BOCES.

Onteora schools thus attained a contract for their needs for No. 2 and 4 fuel oil, but no bids were submitted on No. 6 heating oil which is needed at the Onteora High School. However, according to Charles Knipple, assistant superintendent for business affairs, an agreement has since been reached for a supply of No. 6 fuel which will fulfill Onteora's needs. "All schools will be fueled for the winter," Knipple said.

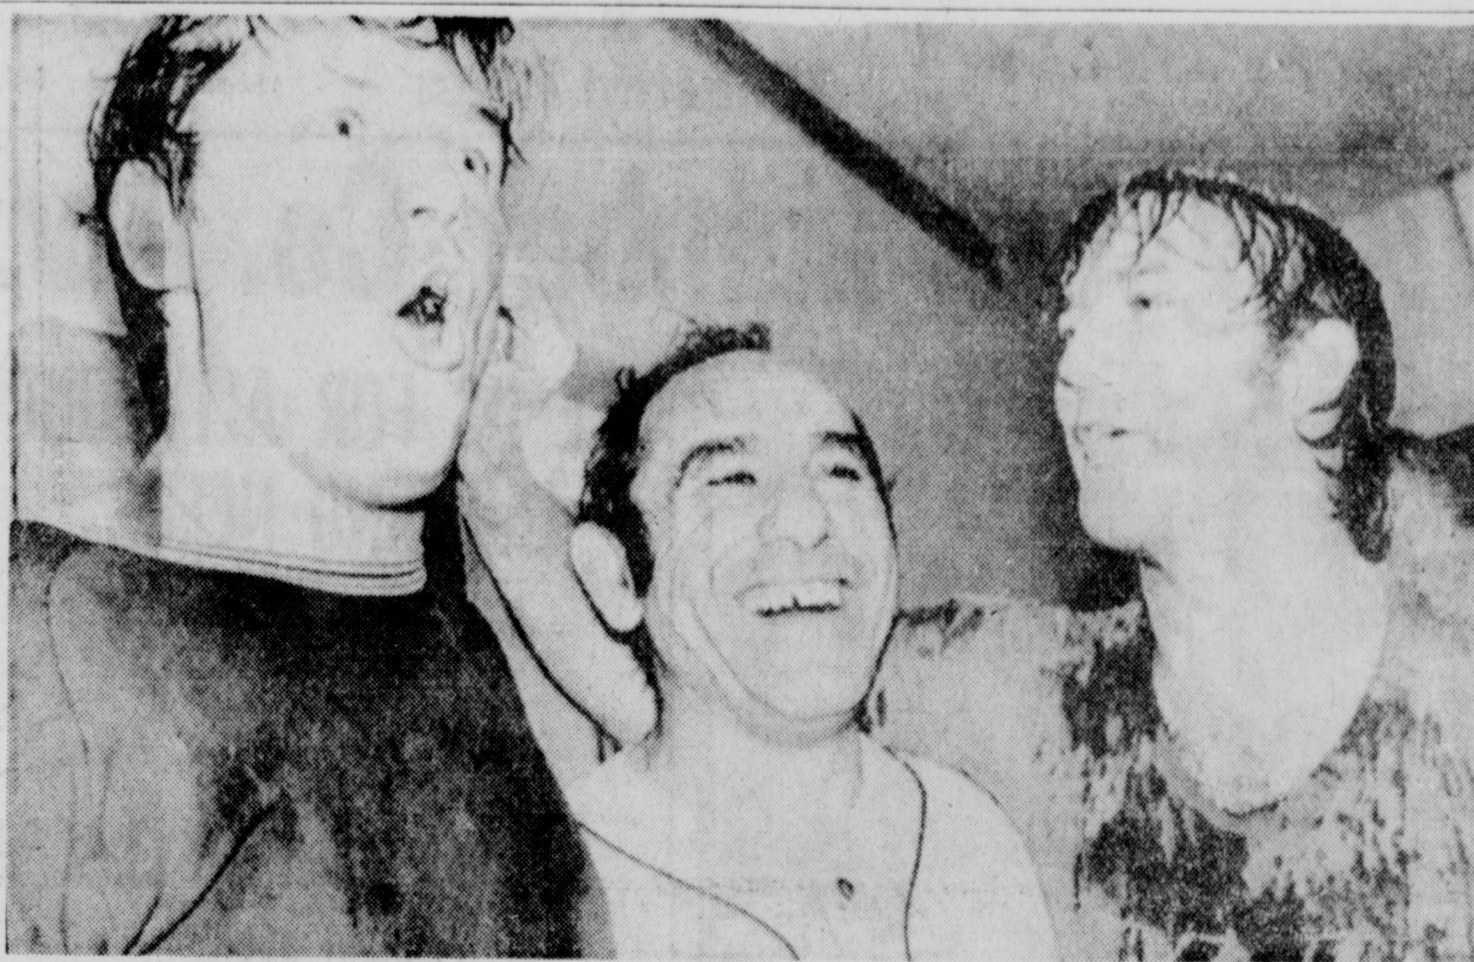

Officials at Rondout Valley and New Paltz Central Schools, both of which submit their needs through BOCES, said contracts with suppliers should carry them through the winter.

"We haven't had any indications at all of any problems," said Frank Hamilton, district clerk and business manager at New Paltz.

While generally optimistic about having an adequate heating oil supply for the year, Frank Rance, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Rondout Valley, added, "But you don't know what limitations will be put on the suppliers."

Gerald Snyder, business manager at Saugerties Central School, doesn't expect students there to have to contend with cold. "To the best of my knowledge we're not going to have any problems," he said. Saugerties has contracts to carry it through the year.

So while some children might be hoping for some extra days off from school because of fuel shortages, school officials are generally optimistic that such will not be the case — at least for the upcoming winter season.

Mandatory Allocation Is Ordered by Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — oil is likely to be most pronounced in the Northeast and the Midwest, while shortages of home heating oil and propane in an effort to soften the impact of threatened winter shortages.

The White House energy advisor, John E. Love, said the mandatory system of allocating propane gas under a priority program would become effective immediately.

Detailed regulations affecting heating oil will be announced and placed into effect in the near future, Love said. Other administration officials said it would take effect in a week or two.

The rationing programs will be administered by the Interior Department.

Love said it was clear the nation "will experience some fuel shortages this winter and perhaps over the next few years."

The scarcity of home heating cents down and we are still a cent down after the ruling. That's no relief," he said.

A spokesman for the service station dealers association in Michigan said some dealers have posted new prices higher than the 2.5 cent limit, but Treasury officials in Washington said anything over that figure would probably be illegal.

A survey of New England dealers and owners showed increases of about 0.7 cents, with another 0.5 cent increase expected by the end of the week.

The president of the 1,500-member Long Island Gasoline Retailers Association predicted that many employees and owners will be attending daylong meetings Wednesday and Thursday to decide how to deal with the relaxed price ceilings and other developments.

During that time, he said, 60 to 90 per cent of the stations on the island may be closed.

An estimated 175 of the 350 service station owners in Fresno, Calif., closed Monday to protest the price hikes.

The Oregon Gasoline Dealers Association said it has decided to defy the Cost of Living Council and pass along to customers all increased costs of doing business.

The administration had attempted to avoid mandatory allocation, a form of government fuel rationing at the wholesale distribution level, by relying on the petroleum industry to follow government guidelines voluntarily.

Administration officials say the nation's heating oil supply may be just barely adequate for a mild winter but that the slight shortage already anticipated could easily become severe under adverse conditions.

Austria to Reject Golda's Plea

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky declared today there is no chance he will accede to Premier Golda Meir's personal plea for reversal of his pledge to close a transit camp for emigrating Soviet Jews.

He made the statement to newsmen as Mrs. Meir was flying to Vienna to intercede with Kreisky and ask that the Schoenau Castle facility be allowed to remain open despite the Austrian promise to Arab guerrillas.

The 75-year-old Israeli leader told a news conference in Strasbourg, France, before boarding her plane for Vienna that the promise means "the victims of terrorism" were being punished instead of the terrorists.

"I hope nothing will be done to make their path to Israel more difficult," she added. Mrs. Meir was in Strasbourg for a speech to the Council of Europe's advisory assembly. She decided on the trip to Vienna following Kreisky's pledge given Saturday to obtain the freedom of an Austrian border guard and three Soviet Jews who had been kidnapped by two Palestinian terrorists. Kreisky said he would explain to Mrs. Meir the "practical steps" his government plans to take so that emigration of Soviet Jews can continue via Austria. These have not been made public, but the chancellor declared: "The decision of the Austrian government is of such a nature that it allows us to fulfill all our obligations as a humanitarian state in the future. Cancellation of the government's decision is unthinkable even under the hardest pressures."

The Israelis contend that a closely guarded transit camp like the setup they have created at the Schoenau Castle is necessary to protect the emigrants from Arab terrorists. They say the Soviets prescribed the escape route through Austria for Soviet Jews. Any alternate route would have to be approved by the Soviets, they said.

Mrs. Meir put aside her prepared speech to the European parliament Monday to say that Kreisky had given "the greatest encouragement to terror throughout the world" when he promised to close the camp in exchange for the four hostages. "The very principle of the freedom of movement has been put under a question mark," she declared.

The Austrian government has not said when it will carry out Kreisky's promise, and Schoenau is reported still processing its usual 40 to 120 Soviet Jews per day.

In Beirut, a guerrilla organization called the Eagles of the Palestine Revolution said it was responsible for the terrorist operation last weekend. It warned of reprisals against Austrian citizens and interests throughout the world if Kreisky reneged on his promise.

The U.S. State Department said it disagreed with Kreisky's move, and it was reported counseling the government in Vienna that capitulation to terrorism was a mistake that would only breed more terrorism.

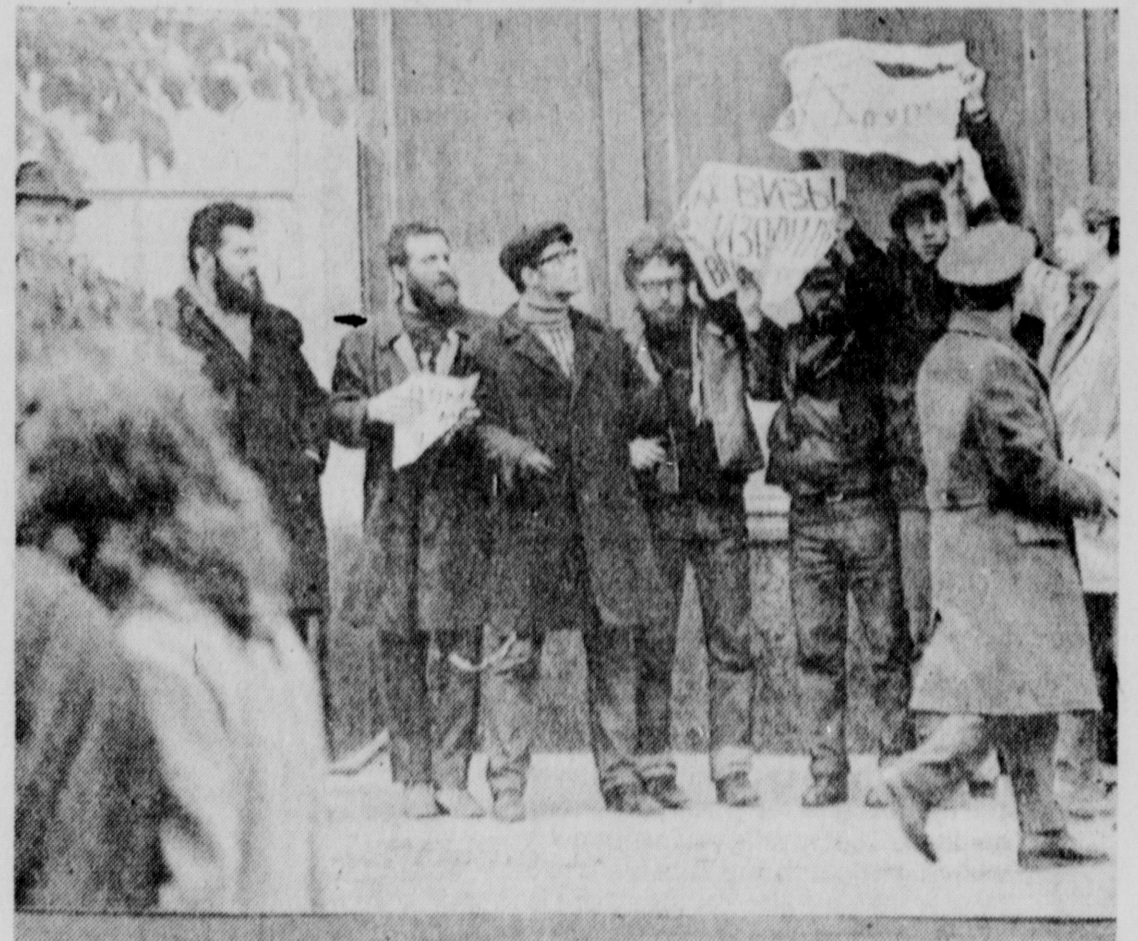

By a voice vote, the U.S. Senate adopted a resolution of concern over Austria's intentions. Meanwhile, the United States is conducting a delicate but firm diplomatic campaign to keep Austria open as a channel for Soviet Jews emigrating to Israel.

With due regard for Austrian sovereignty, U.S. officials here and in Vienna are telling the Kreisky government that capitulation to terrorists is not only wrong in human terms but weakens the nation that yields.

Merrill Proposes Trolley-Train

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

A combination trolley-train Railroad line, which would run both on and off existing tracks shuttling people between downtown Kingston and the Kingston Shopping Plaza and beyond was proposed today by Republican Mayoral candidate William B. Merrill.

Concerned with transportation needs the gas and energy crisis, Merrill put forth a three-pronged proposal which he said could be funded by the federal and state governments as well as the private sector.

On official campaign leave from his job as assistant buildings and grounds supervisor for the county, since Oct. 1, Merrill made his proposal as follows:

- Provide a "Budd Railroad System", a combination trolley-train with 35 to 40-seat capacity, to run from Kingston Point, Rondout Gardens, Broadway, Albany Avenue and culminate in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, running along an existing revitalized Ulster and Delaware Railroad line.

Merrill said that this would enable many residents within those areas to utilize the rail system for transportation to work, for pleasure and shopping.

At the same time, he explained small eight to 10-seat buses would be run on a shuttle basis criss cross to the rail line.

- Contact the Hudson River Dayline officials to determine if excursions could be brought to the Kingston Point area and then have the travelers taken to the plaza by bus and on scenic tours of the Catskills by train. Tracks presently exist between Kingston and the heartland of the Catskill area.

- Promote "recreational concepts" with regard to nearby ski areas, also taking into consideration the city's proximity to the monorail system which is being installed from Stewart Air Force Base in Newburgh to the heart of New York City.

Merrill suggests that a bus hookup be made with the monorail which would take passengers to the Kingston railroad station where trains could be boarded for the mountains and ski resorts.

He said he has discussed his proposals with Congressman Fish Jr. (R-24th Dist.), Harris Gordon, chairman of the Catskill Mountain Transportation Corporation and C. John Bechtold, who is with the Pennsylvania Railroad, emphasizing the possibility of revitalizing the Ulster and Delaware Railroad line for mass transportation.

Merrill has concluded that he "is surprised that someone hasn't been working on this already."

Merrill described the "Budd Rail System" as being diesel-propelled with trolley-like trains which could ride the rails as well as on city streets. He said Fund money released for mass transportation, to secure local aid.

He explained that his plans call for the Catskill Mountain Transportation Corporation, a private corporation, to be the lessor and the City of Kingston would be the lessee to the tracks within the city boundaries. Merrill said he was confident that the proposal "can be worked out with complete understanding."

The mayoral candidate also took the occasion to reveal that the present Democratic city administration has not made any studies of the city rail and transportation system, saying he "is surprised that someone hasn't been working on this already."

Merrill described the "Budd Rail System" as being diesel-propelled with trolley-like trains which could ride the rails as well as on city streets. He said Fund money released for mass transportation, to secure local aid.

He suggested that such a system would be an aid to senior citizens, students and members of the working public. Merrill told of only one city bus now operating in Kingston adding that private taxi companies "do the best they can" but "it is obvious that the city must provide a new form of mass transportation or be throttled by its own congestion."

Tioga Republican's 27th District, feel the economy and inflation are the country's most serious and pressing problem, he announced this week.

A pool of his constituents revealed further that 63 per cent of the people would favor daylight savings time on a year-round basis.

In his eight-question poll, conducted this past summer, Robison found that voters are divided equally with 50 per cent favoring legislation which would compel the President to spend all funds appropriated by Congress.

Sixty-eight per cent of Robison's constituents favor an amendment to the Constitution to (in effect) repeal abortion laws and allow abortion only to save the life of the mother.

A control-free economy was also favored by 58.5 per cent

Agnew Prosecutors Wary of Statutes of Limitations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors investigating Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are being pinched by the knowledge that a good portion of their case may be unuseable in as little as three weeks.

Agnew is under investigation by a special grand jury in Baltimore for possible violation of extortion, bribery, tax and conspiracy laws during his tenure as Maryland governor.

Under federal statutes of limitations, prosecution for bribery, extortion and conspiracy to commit either offense must be initiated within five years of the commission of the crime.

Agnew's lawyers may argue that the statutes, as they relate to the extortion and bribery allegations against the vice president, expire Oct. 22, it was learned Monday.

It was on Oct. 22, 1968, almost five years ago, that Agnew attended his last major session of the Maryland State Board of Public Works. At that meeting, seven major engineering contracts were awarded totaling more than $5.6 million.

All records relating to the awarding of those contracts have been subpoenaed by the Baltimore grand jury.

The statutes of limitations on tax evasion, tax fraud and conspiracy to commit those crimes is six years, so presumably the grand jury would have until some time next year to act on those allegations against Agnew.

Sources close to the case reported that if Agnew's lawyers claim Oct. 22 as the expiration date on the extortion and bribery statutes, the federal prosecutors may counter with a claim that the five years don't expire until Jan. 7, 1974, five years after Agnew formally resigned as governor, or even Jan. 20, 1974, five years after he formally became vice president.

Nonetheless, the prosecutors are moving quickly to present evidence to the grand jury. The grand jury is expected back in session later this week.

Meanwhile, Agnew returned from a long weekend on the West Coast to find his battle with the Justice Department once again joined. During a speech in Los Angeles Saturday, Agnew sharply criticized Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen who has been quoted by unnamed sources as saying about the Agnew investigation, "We've got the evidence; we've got it cold."

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Monday that Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson had investigated and assured President Nixon that Petersen was not the source of the report and had not even talked to the news media.

McGovern Aides Are Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern's top campaign aides have been questioned by the Senate Watergate committee staff on whether any "dirty tricks" were perpetrated by McGovern supporters in the 1972 presidential campaign.

A Republican committee source said Monday the probe turned up only "bits and pieces" and no "bombshells." The investigation was done primarily by Republican staff employees, but at least one Democrat usually was present for the interviews, which included a four-hour session with McGovern's former campaign manager, Gary Hart. The interviews were conducted quietly over the past several weeks.

Chief committee counsel Samuel Dash told UPI, "I haven't yet received any evidence of Democratic dirty tricks."

Also quizzed were Lawrence O'Brien, McGovern's former campaign director; Ted Van Dyk, his director of issues and director of communication, and Marion Pearlman, finance director and treasurer.

Republican staff officials were reported investigating alleged use of McGovern telephone banks to instigate an anti-Nixon rally at one of the resident's campaign stops in Los Angeles.

"They wanted to know about efforts to infiltrate CRP (Committee for the Re-election of the President), and I said 'No, we didn't have any spies,'" said Hart in a telephone interview from Denver, Colo., where he is practicing law and considering a bid for the U.S. Senate in 1974.

Committee investigators were told that political prankster Dick Tuck was employed at a $200-a-week salary by the McGovern campaign during late 1971 and early 1972.

Mankiewicz acknowledged he hired Tuck. But Mankiewicz insisted Tuck was to boost morale with his jokes and to work seriously in research and press relations.

White House speech writer Patrick J. Buchanan has told the Watergate committee that Donald Segretti was hired to be the Nixon campaign's Dick Tuck. Segretti pleaded guilty Monday to three counts of violating federal election laws and will be the first witness Wednesday when the committee resumes hearings.

"If I knew it would have started a crime wave," said Mankiewicz in a telephone interview from Erie, Pa., "I would never have hired Tuck. I didn't know he was spooking them that much."

Erlichman Says Nixon Approved The Break-in

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Grand jury transcripts revealed Monday that John Ehrlichman said President Nixon ordered the covert White House investigation of Daniel Ellsberg that led to the break-in at Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office.

There was no testimony from Ehrlichman to show that Nixon knew in advance, or approved, of the break-in.

Transcripts from Ehrlichman's June appearance before the grand jury were released under provisions of a court order that the testimony could be made public 10 days after the arraignment of the defendants indicted in connection with the break-in.

G. Gordon Liddy, the last to be arraigned, appeared in court two weeks ago. Also indicted were Ehrlichman and two other former White House officials, Egil Krogh and David Young.

The government charges that Krogh and Young directed the Ellsberg operation, including the break-in at the offices of Dr. Louis Fielding, acting on authorization from Ehrlichman. The operation was said to have been carried out by the "plumbers squad" under the command of Liddy, who is already serving a sentence for his role in the Watergate burglary.

The government charged Ellsberg, a former Defense Department researcher, with leaking the contents of the papers to the press.

According to the grand jury transcript, Ehrlichman replied "I think ultimately the President did" when he was asked who made the decision to investigate the leak of the Pentagon Papers.

Ehrlichman was asked whether he approved Krogh's recommendation that Hunt and Liddy be sent on such a mission after an FBI investigation proved unsatisfactory.

"I believe the recommendation was discussed specifically with the President before it was approved," he replied.

"By you?" Ehrlichman was asked.

"No... as I say, I believe he (Nixon)... specifically approved it and it's my recollection that he either discussed it with—well, I know he discussed it with Mr. Hoover," a reference to the late J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI.

Segretti Pleads Guilty, Will Cooperate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don-ald H. Segretti, political dirty trickster financed by Nixon campaign funds, has become the third Watergate figure to plead guilty and agree to cooperate with federal prosecutors. In a brief appearance in U.S. District Court Monday, Segretti, 32-year-old California lawyer, pleaded guilty to three misdemeanor charges stemming from his activities during the 1972 Democratic presidential primary in Florida.

Outside the courthouse later, Segretti was asked how he felt and he replied, "Obviously I don't look upon it with any great delight... I certainly regret my involvement."

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell deferred sentencing. The maximum penalty for each of the three charges is one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Gesell ordered sealed a letter from special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox to Victor Sherman of Los Angeles, Segretti's attorney. It outlined the details of the agreement under which Segretti agreed to cooperate.

Neither Sherman nor Richard Davis of Cox's office would say why the details of the letter were kept secret.

Segretti was indicted by a federal grand jury in Tampa on charges of conspiracy and of distributing political literature that failed to identify the organizations or persons responsible for it. One of the items Segretti arranged to have distributed during the Florida primary was a letter on campaign stationery of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, which accused two other candidates, Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Henry M. Jackson of Washington, of sexual misconduct. Another item was a card distributed at a rally for Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama that read, "If you liked Hitler, you'll love Wallace... Vote for Muskie."

Segretti also received limited immunity for testimony before the Senate Watergate committee.

GOP Explains Paltz Tax Rise

NEW PALTZ created load for the town. The Town of New Paltz justices, more miles of town road, a new town garage, the office, apparently taking note of opposition criticism that taxes in the town have been going up during its long Republican dominance, set forth what they considered to be the reasons for the tax rise at a press conference at Dominick's in New Paltz Monday night.

According to the candidates, and a statement on the matter released in conjunction with the conference, the reasons for the tax rise are inflation and 14 items of increased town services either requested by townspeople or required by state mandate.

According to the candidates' statement, over the past five years inflation has accounted for about a five per cent a year rise.

The other 14 items mentioned were the new town police department, a full-time building inspector and secretary, in-

Mrs. Taylor said increased communication between the board and townspeople was necessary, and the Republican candidates were trying to get their message out to the voters. In addition to press conferences, the Republican candidates are holding "neighborhood forums" throughout the town.

Gibbons said traffic and its flow through the town and village was a major concern, though he felt the joint town-village venture on the extension of Fulton Road would help. He said taxes, and the type of taxes, was another main issue, with being his job as a councilman to be concerned with "how much you get for your money."

Both of the two councilmanic candidates supported the proposed Tri State development of a regional shopping center on Route 299 east of the Thruway. Mrs. Taylor said she had been campaigning door to door for three weeks, and had met no one who said they were opposed to the center. She said people were in favor of it for the tax relief it would bring and the shopping convenience. She said she also found many who were uninformed on the subject. Gibbons said he favored it for the same reasons as Mrs. Taylor, and also as an aid to getting water and sewer to the light industrial district in the Tri-State area. He pointed out that the developer would be paying for both the new districts. Gibbons, an incumbent on the town board, voted for both the districts.

Asked about accommodating growth yet preserving the town's rural atmosphere, Mrs. Taylor said "The key to this is zoning." She said the town's residents can determine the type of zoning they have. "People have to speak up," she said. Gibbons was for more people contacting the planning board and telling that board what they wanted in the way of zoning.

Ellenville Bridge Bids Opened

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE week from Oct. 22-26. The Ellenville Village Board village will be divided into five sectors, with pickup by village crews in one sector each day. Monday night, and tabled all bids for further study.

The bids ranged from the apparent low of $116,892 by the Accord-based firm of Rosakranse Masonry, Inc., to a high of $286,055 by the Beaver Building Corp. of Albany.

The bridge has to be demolished and rebuilt as part of the village's Flood Control project. The village will pay 35 per cent of the cost of the bridge; the other 65 per cent will be borne by the Town of Wawarsing.

Trustee Sol Sandler urged village residents to attend town board meetings to let the town board know how they felt about paying town taxes for snow removal. Sandler said village residents pay for snow removal in the town, though the village clears its own streets. "We are being taxed without any service," he said.

The village board has already written to the town board requesting village exemption from this section of the town budget.

The final public hearing for purposes of adoption of the village recodification was changed from Oct. 8 to Wednesday, Oct. 24 at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 8 is Columbus Day, a legal holiday. The village landfill will also be closed that day.

Louis Greenstein, speaking from the floor, said codification had become "a big porkbarrel" and urged its speedy passage. "Pass the darn thing," he said, "and if anything is wrong with it, we'll change it."

Village Manager Modris Pukulis announced that the village would hold its clean-up go in the overburdened village landfill. He also made a plea for more volunteer help. Mayor Robert Dowling named a six-member Youth Commission for the village. Named to serve on the commission were Adrian Milton, Raymond Younger, Mrs. Linda Zuckrow, David Pautz, Julio Martinez, and Charles Slinsky.

Pukulis said the village, in cooperation with Central Hudson, New York Telephone, and Ellenville Cable-TV, would be removing 29 dead trees in the village. The village's share in the venture will be hauling the trees away after they are cut down, he said. Dowling reported that meetings were continuing on the Change banks.

It's the perfect time to make your move to Heritage. Now, at the end of the quarter, interest on your present account has already been paid.

So now you can change to the bank that pays the highest interest allowed by law.

For example, your money can earn 7.08% effective annual yield in our 6.75% 2½ to 4 year term account (minimum deposit of $1000).

That's the highest rate allowed in the state.

Higher than commercial banks.

The same goes for our 5¼% day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal account with a 5.47% effective annual yield. And you can withdraw any amount, anytime, without losing interest, as long as a balance of $10 remains.

If you still prefer the 5¼% regular savings account, change now during the bonus interest period. As always, money deposited by the 10th earns interest from the first. Regular savings accounts also have an effective annual yield of 5.47%.

These are the highest rates allowed, no matter which account you choose.

But there's more besides. Like free personal money orders for depositors. Low-cost Savings Bank Life Insurance. Safe deposit boxes. Free banking by mail. Free parking. And convenient hours.

Topped off with warm, courteous service.

For all the good reasons, make your move to Heritage now.

SEN. PROXMIRE

Two Youths Charged In Proxmire Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clad in gym shorts and shirt, his usual dress for routine physical-fitness jogs between home and Capitol Hill, Sen. William Proxmire was confronted with two youths demanding his money.

"You've got to be kidding," the Wisconsin Democrat told them Monday night. Last year he bluffed two would-be holdup men out of robbing him when he claimed to have terminal cancer.

This time, police said Proxmire was injured slightly when one of the youths beat him with a stick as the senator grappled with him before the pair fled. The two, aged 14 and 15, were arrested 25 minutes later when Proxmire identified them from a police car in which he was cruising the neighborhood.

The attempted robbery came the same day that the jury was chosen in the trial of a Washington youth charged with attempting to kill Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss. Opening arguments in the trial were scheduled for today.

The youth, 19-year-old Tyrone I. Marshall, is charged with assault with intent to kill a member of Congress. He is the first person to be tried under the 1971 Congressional Assassination Act, which made it a federal crime to assault a congressman.

The two arrested in the Proxmire attack were charged with assault on a member of Congress under the same 1971 law.

They also were charged with intent to commit armed robbery. Police did not release their names.

The senator said one of the boys beat him on the side and thighs with a stick.

"I finally grabbed the stick and dragged him out into the street," Proxmire said. "I broke off part of the stick."

Proxmire is a physical-fitness devotee and regularly dresses in gym clothing while he walks and jogs between his office and home.

In May 1972, Proxmire was stopped by two men, one of whom demanded: "Give me your money or I'll blow your head off," he told police.

Police said the senator told them "Go ahead and shoot, because I have terminal cancer and will be dead in two weeks anyway," and then began to shout. The men fled.

Stennis, 72, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, was accosted outside his home the night of Jan. 30, robbed of 25 cents, a pocket watch and his Phi Beta Kappa key, then shot. He was hospitalized for months and finally returned to the Senate in September.

Marshall, who has been held in lieu of $100,000 bond, faces a maximum sentence of life imprisonment if convicted. His brother, John, 22, has pleaded guilty in the case and is awaiting sentencing. A third defendant is free on bond, pending trial.

Doubling of College Tuition Opposed by State Legislator

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Doubling tuition at the State University would prove politically to be "a very, very difficult undertaking," according to the chairman of a legislative committee on higher education.

Assemblyman Peter J. Costigan, R-Setauket, commented Monday on a major national report by the Committee for Economic Development which recommended that public college tuition throughout the nation be raised so that it covers 50 percent of the instructional cost per student.

The proposal by the Washington-based CED would place a greater burden on the individual for his education and would sharply reduce the disparity in tuition between public and private colleges, thereby improving the competitive standing of private institutions.

Tuition in the State University of New York system is now $650 a year for freshmen and sophomores and $800 a year for juniors and seniors. Costigan estimated that it would have to be raised to at least $1,500 a year to meet the CED standard.

"Politically, I think it's a very, very difficult undertaking," said the Long Island legislator, chairman of the legislature's Select Committee on Higher Education.

Costigan pointed to the longstanding and powerful opposition to frequent proposals for imposing tuition at the City University of New York. Free tuition at the City University has become a "sacrosanct item of political faith," he said.

The assemblyman spoke with a reporter after meeting with 35 Albany-area college officials Monday to discuss possible improvements in the state's aid

Small Montana Community . . . 8 of 500 Residents Killed

STANFORD, Mont. (AP) — Everybody knows everybody else here. It's not much different from thousands of other small towns. When tragedy strikes in places like Stanford, it hits almost every household.

A Saturday evening plane trip, described by the sheriff as nothing more than a "joy ride," ended in a burning heap on a nearby mountainside. Eight persons, all of whom grew up in this town of 500, were dead.

"When eight people from a small community are killed at once, it's pretty somber," said Deputy Sheriff Ralph Gentry.

Among the dead were a pilot who had flown a company-owned plane home for a visit, two college students home for the weekend and the county treasurer.

"Things are pretty quiet right now," Gentry said. "All of the families are well known to everyone."

On Wednesday, there will be one funeral service for two of the victims and a mass service for the other six at the Stanford High School auditorium.

The eight had gone for the ride in a plane flown by Arthur Myllymaki, 22. He had left Stanford six months ago and moved to Phoenix, Ariz., to work as a pilot for a construction firm. He had flown the Cessna 402 to Seattle on business. On his way back to Phoenix, Myllymaki had stopped off in Stanford.

It could not be determined what brought the eight together on Saturday afternoon, but residents said all of them were friends. Sheriff Charles O. Loberg of Judith Basin County said everyone in Stanford was in some way connected with one of the victims.

"The people just walk around in a daze," Loberg said. "It's like they're in a trance." Six

Parents of Five New Babies Want Private Family Life

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Edna and Eugene Stanek say they just want to get their lives back to normal. With five new babies and one extra bedroom, that won't be easy.

The five surviving Stanek sextuplets, born Sept. 16, are expected home from Colorado General Hospital toward the end of October. The big problems then will be "cribs, clothing and economics," said Dr. James Strain, a hospital pediatrician.

But for the moment, the Staneks are trying to restore their privacy. They got an unlisted telephone number, and the 31-year-old Stanek, an accountant, has refused news interviews for his wife after she held one news conference.

"We intend to keep our family life private," he said. "And that's been difficult because of the considerable amount of interest."

"They are both going about their business as usual," Strain said. "Gene is still looking forward to skiing and is going to work as usual."

Friends and neighbors have offered to help care for the infants and provide furniture and clothing. But there will be problems.

One neighbor said the Staneks have only one extra room and she can envision "wall-to-wall cribs in that one room."

Stanek said his family probably will have to move, but said he won't begin looking until next spring or summer. The couple has lived in their present home nearly four years with their other child, 4-year-old Gregory.

"The big problem for the Staneks will be feeding," said Alma Arbuckle, head nurse at Colorado General. But staff nurse Paula Kenning predicted that the real problem will come "when the babies are 18 months old and all going different ways."

"The mechanics of feeding will have to be shared with neighbors and friends," Strain said. "Quite a few people have

Benefits for Ulster

Ulster County GOP Chairman Albert Spada, obviously kicking his heels in delight, described some juicy tidbits that would accrue to Ulster County if Governor Rockefeller's massive $3.5 billion transportation bond issue is approved at the polls this November.

Not looking a gift horse in the mouth, it nevertheless behooves one to exercise the greatest caution when dealing with the Master of the Albany Mall. In fact, the enticements dangled before area voters may be too good to be true, included among which are:

- Complete construction of the Kingston-Ulster Arterial.
- A four-lane Albany Ave. from Fox-hall Ave. to the Route 209 overpass.
- An Ellenville bypass on Route 209, and major improvements on that death highway.

This certainly is more than anyone could ask for in one package; more so, considering that in the original draft of the bond issue, Ulster came up with merely a pittance.

And the largesse that now seemingly flows from the Governor's Mansion will certainly change many opponents' minds regarding passage of this enormous sum, which obviously is what it was designed to do. But for the time being, the Freeman will be reserving judgement.

Between now and Election Day, we would like to see the Republican leaders come up with some sort of solid assurances that Ulster will receive $100 million, if the bond issue passes. In other words, some sort of guarantee that the governor won't change his mind.

Alcoholism in the Service

The United States Army finally has recognized alcoholism for what it is—a drug problem as serious as the problems caused by use of marijuana or opiates.

Up until recently there had been a tendency to take a more benign attitude toward the soldier who drank too much as compared to the serviceman addicted to "pot" or the harder drugs.

Now that it has been determined that all victims of drugs—whatever the drug may be—will be treated with the same concern, there is hope that some inroads will be made on the drinking situation. And it's some situation, judging from statistics issued by the Alcohol and Drug Policy Division chief.

Brig. Gen. Leslie Forney admitted that 70 per cent of the enlisted men and 36 per cent of the officers were "heavy" drinkers or "problem" drinkers.

The general had an interesting definition of the difference in the two categories. A problem drinker, he told a Senate Armed Forces subcommittee, is any serviceman who has had as many as one problem incident with his boss, his wife or the law within the last three years.

The heavy drinker was described as one who has had four or five drinks on four or more days during the week.

With the thoroughness sometimes associated with the armed forces, General Forney broke down the statistics into younger and older soldiers, high ranking and low ranking. The categories may be meaningful to a psychologist but what they really add up to is there's too much drinking going on. And the Army had better stop it or face some huge problems.

It's an almost incredible statistic—seven out of every 10 enlisted men with a drinking problem!

The general attributed one of the reasons for the high figure to the fact that "we live in a hard-drinking society." The statement's true but the answer is over-simplified.

The Army, itself, has to share some of the blame for the situation. For example, the problem seems to be more acute in Germany than elsewhere because of boredom with garrison duties and a foreign environment.

The Pentagon is fully aware of the milieu in which it is thrusting its soldiers and it would seem logical for the Defense Department to at least do something about the boredom which certainly is contributing to misuse of drugs.

As it is, the Army is spending close to $40 million annually on rehabilitation at installations ranging from small "rap" centers to sophisticated residence treatment facilities. But far better to catch the problem at the start.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A representative of billionaire Howard Hughes, Richard Danner, has told Senate Watergate investigators that he obtained an antitrust waiver in 1970 from then-Attorney General John Mitchell. This coincided closely, Danner admitted, with his delivery of $100,000 in gambling money to President Nixon's friend, Bebe Rebozo.

Danner insisted, however, that Mitchell was unaware of the contribution and, therefore, that the favorable antitrust action was not a quid pro quo for the money.

Danner said he had three conversations with Mitchell about Hughes' desire to purchase the Dunes hotel-casino in Las Vegas. On the last occasion, Danner called upon Mitchell at the Justice Department and was given clearance to go ahead with the Dunes acquisition.

This occurred, to the best of Danner's recollection, in August or September of 1970.

A few weeks earlier, on July 3, 1970, according to Danner's records, he handed $50,000 in $100 bills to Rebozo at President Nixon's San Clemente estate.

FUZZY RECOLLECTION

Danner had no record of the exact time he delivered the additional $50,000 installment.

He originally told the Internal Revenue Service that he had turned over the cash to Rebozo at the President's Key Biscayne estate in August, 1969. But Danner explained to the Watergate investigators that he later gave the IRS a n amended statement, suggesting it was possible the delivery could have occurred in August, 1970.

Before the $100,000 changed hands, the Justice Department had blocked Hughes from purchasing another Las Vegas hotel-casino, the Stardust, on antitrust grounds. But the Justice Department changed its attitude in 1970 when Mitchell promised, according to Danner, not to obstruct the expansion of Hughes' gambling empire.

The Senate sleuths questioned Danner this past August 30 in his offices at the Sands hotel-casino in Las Vegas. Throughout the secret interview, he insisted that the two $50,000 payments were intended as campaign contributions.

President Nixon, of course, wasn't campaigning for office at the time the money was delivered, but Danner said the President was expected to use the money to help his favorite candidates in the 1970 congressional races.

DON POPS UP

Danner told the investigators that the question of a campaign contribution was first brought up with Rebozo in 1968. Rebozo broke off the discussion, however, when he learned that the President's brother, Donald Nixon, was involved in arranging a Hughes contribution. When Don Nixon's name came up, recounted Danner, Rebozo said to "drop it, forget it."

A White House spokesman denied that the President had ever received the $100,000 offering, and friends of Rebozo told us that no campaign money had been diverted into personal channels.

But the transaction underlies how difficult it is becoming to distinguish between a campaign contribution and an outright bribe.

ROOSEVELT INVESTIGATION: An indignant Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, has flown in from Portugal to answer charges before the Senate later this week that he has been consorting with racketeers.

One of them, Louis Mastriana, testified that Roosevelt and a mobster "offered me $100,000 to kill, to whack (Bahamian Prime Minister) Lynden O. Pindling). They expected me to kill him."

Another convicted stock swindler, Patsy A. Lepera, has told Senate investigators that he used Roosevelt to pass stolen securities on at least three different occasions. Checking on his story, the investigators have established that Roosevelt and Lepera traveled to New York and Canada together.

The investigators have also interviewed witnesses who swear that Roosevelt has associated with a number of other stock swindlers, including the notorious Noe brothers, Clifford and Paul, who are now in prison.

Roosevelt is outraged over the charges. He has acknowledged privately that his famous name has attracted some unsavory characters who have tried to use him. But in the words of his attorney, "Roosevelt has never knowingly transferred stolen securities." The story of the assassination plot, the attorney told us, is "ridiculous."

Meanwhile, the witness who testified about the assassination plot has been living it up in a posh Washington area apartment for the past 17 months at the Justice Department's expense. Mastriana is supposed to be serving an eight-year term in the federal penitentiary at Texarkana, Tex. But we tracked him down to a $275 apartment where he has been attending parties, socializing at the swimming pool and otherwise living flamboyantly.

The Justice Department confirmed that it has been paying Mastriana's bills, because he has been cooperating with a federal investigation of the stock swindling racket. He is kept under 24-hour protection by federal marshals. For security reasons, we agreed not to identify the apartment nor to divulge his assumed name.

Footnote: Mastriana's testimony about Roosevelt was solicited by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill. Senate Investigations Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash., had not intended to air the charges until Roosevelt had been given full opportunity to respond.

Inside Report

Politics as Usual

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Breaking a precedent of long standing in their cordial relationship, House Speaker Carl Albert conspicuously failed to inform Rep. Gerald Ford, the Republican leader, of his decision not to accept the torrid case of Vice President Spiro Agnew last Wednesday.

That omission by Albert was no oversight. It was an intentional signal to Ford and the House Republicans that the majority Democrats were ready to assert a new partisanship in the pyramid of bewildering constitutional crises now threatening this country with its harshest challenge since the Civil War.

Ford, the Michigan Congressman who has led his party in the House for nine years, sat in with Albert, House Democratic leader Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, Jr., of Massachusetts and other House leaders in an indecisive meeting Tuesday evening on Agnew's request for a complete House investigation of conspiracy and bribery charges against him.

Claiming that Agnew's unique request to the House must be taken seriously, Ford urged on his colleagues the following course: establish a select committee of distinguished members to receive and study all the evidence.

At that evening session, O'Neill's position was not abruptly stated but seemed clear: don't force the Democratic majority to take Agnew off the hook and out of the courts particularly in view of President Nixon's repeated demands that the Senate Watergate Committee end its hearings and turn the matter over to the courts.

But Albert was obviously torn. Some intimates of the Speaker were convinced he hoped to finesse the whole issue by routinely sending the Agnew investigation to the House Judiciary Committee, headed by Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey.

O'Neill had other ideas, partly germinating from his own sense of partisanship and partly springing from an acute undercurrent of partisan feelings among younger, more liberal House Democrats who have felt anesthetized by their leaders' lack of combative spirit.

O'Neill's conclusion, after careful checking with his Democratic whip: accepting the Agnew pleas would infuriate the more militant Democrats. He also discovered that even such conservative Southern Democrats as Rep. Joe Waggoner of Louisiana, who has good ties with the White House, were loath to get mixed up in the explosive Agnew affair which seemed to be pitting the President against either his Vice President or his Attorney General.

O'Neill then quietly informed the Speaker of these conclusions. Albert, who has become the most pressurable Speaker in memory, rushed out with his statement refusing to accept the Agnew request without telling Ford.

Actually, many Republicans — quite likely including Ford himself — has no more desire to grab the hot coal of Agnew's request than O'Neill did, regardless of their statements. But Ford was hurt and angered by the degree of partisanship that kept him in the dark.

Ever since Watergate became the only game in town last March, the Democrats have wisely eschewed normal partisanship. Whatever political benefits they have gained from President Nixon's terrible troubles have accumulated on their own. The best Watergate politics, the Democrats correctly decided, was to let Watergate play itself out and not try to milk it.

Now, however, that mood is beginning to change. For example, senior Democrats in both Houses, thinking ahead to Agnew's possible removal or resignation at some future time, are now plotting demands on the President that would severely reduce his freedom to name a successor.

Any successor he may choose will be pressured to give a public commitment not to run for President in 1976. In addition, the Democratic leaders are now planning a most exhaustive investigation and hearings for any nominee Mr. Nixon may send Congress if Agnew does not survive. In private, responsible Democrats in Congress believe they have a serious chance to defeat John B. Connally for Vice President if his name is submitted. They fully intend to try.

Partisan politics, muted for so long during the Watergate scandals, will continue to intensify with the start of the 1974 Congressional election campaign. That puts additional burdens on a system of government already overloaded with disorder.

Housing Proposal No Help at All

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's long-awaited message on housing, like so many government documents these days, amounts to a bizarre, almost grisly parody of itself.

In addressing the problems faced by middle-income people looking for a home, the President's message said, in effect: trust the banks, which the government will further subsidize so that they'll loosen up some of that mortgage money.

For low-income people in search of housing, the message said: this study promises another study on that. ((This portion of the housing message should have been in tarpaper to provide temporary shelter.))

"Credit is the lifeblood of housing," the President proclaimed, as he turned his middle-class constituency over to usurious vampires.

Mr. Nixon defined as one of his key goals "permitting homebuyers to pay market-level interest rates and still be eligible for federal insurance." How nice. This is like "permitting" people to buy diamonds, pearls and rubies with a government guarantee.

The price of borrowing has become astronomical and what is the administration response? Legislation to lower interest rates?

Instead, Housing Secretary James Lynn says that state laws against usury are "archaic," making the 12 per cent loan the latest in suburban chic.

"We cannot relent in the fight against inflation," the President's statement said.

"Nor can we expect to insulate housing from the effects of that effort."

But lending institutions will be cozily insulated by items like "forward commitments" of up to $2.5 billion in their loan liabilities.

In the coming wintry freeze, no banker in America shall go homeless and no savings-and-loan tycoon need worry about a suitable roof over his head.

The freeze continues for nearly all low-income housing programs. When the President referred to "the challenge of low-income housing," the code of self-parody meant that the homeless were the ones being challenged, not the public officials whose job is to provide homes, and certainly not the banks.

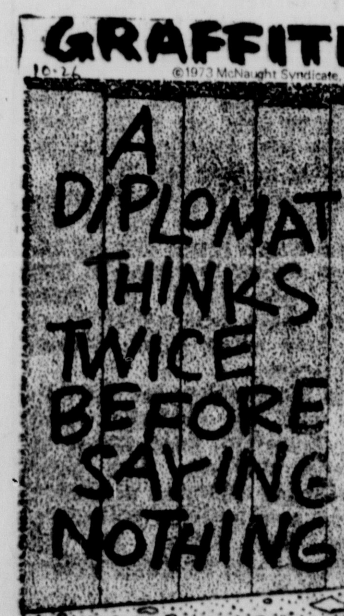

The President's language is almost lyrical about housing allowances as "the most equitable, least expensive approach." Those who worked on the study were enthusiastic for the idea of giving the poor cash to shop for homes, but the budgeteers in the White House were not.

Housing allowances are controversial, but they at least buy housing, which is more than further studies will do, including the one the President says he needs "to make a final decision concerning this approach late in 1974 or early in 1975."

After more than six months of study and self-parody the well-housed rich are better off; the middle class and the poor are out in the cold.

This is "a sweeping study of Federal housing policy," the President's message said. Indeed, right under the rug.

Using 'Quiet' Approach

New Paltz Filling Dorms

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ Empty dormitory beds, a continuing problem throughout the State University of New York may be on its way to a solution at the State University College at New Paltz.

According to figures supplied by the college's office of student housing, 2,086 students are now occupying the college's dormitories. The college's dorm capacity is 2,474, leaving 388 empty beds this fall semester, but that is a dramatic decrease from last year's figures.

The State University conducted a study of the dormitory occupancy rate of all its member colleges last year, and that study showed that proportionally New Paltz had one of the state's biggest problems, with 449 dormitory beds unfilled.

That figure was for the fall 1972 semester. It got worse in the spring 1973 semester, when 658 beds were left empty.

Last year's problem resulted in a University-wide requirement for member colleges to file plans with the State University to cut the number of empty beds. The plan New Paltz filed, formulated under the direction of Director of Student Housing Gordon Dillahun, is apparently working. Dillahun told the Freeman this year that the plan was to provide "a divergence of offerings" to students. One big divergence New Paltz students now have the option of selecting is a "quiet dormitory," something considered by nearly all present and former college students a contradiction in terms.

Special

Two dormitories, with enforced quiet regulations, are now being operated on the New Paltz campus. DuBois Hall is now being run as a quiet dormitory for undergraduates. Deyo Hall is now a quiet dormitory for married students, graduate students, and older undergraduates. Both dormitories have enforced 24-hour quiet regulations.

In addition to being a quiet dorm, an innovation at New Paltz, Deyo Hall is further innovative by being the college's first dormitory accommodations for married students. Before the advent of Deyo, the college's married students had to live off campus.

Both dormitories are at or near capacity, Dillahun said. Deyo is slightly under capacity because a few married couples who had signed up for it were unable to attend the college this semester, he said.

Dillahun was also planning to have students who requested it grouped by discipline of study. In such a plan, students such as language students would be living in the same dormitory area and reinforcing their college studies through their daily living. He said, because of the summer break, he had been unable to implement the plan this year, but was planning on it for next year.

One group of students living together this year for study purposes is from the Psychology Department, Dillahun said, taking a course called "The Social Animal" which includes their dormitory experiences. Dillahun said about 45 of the students were grouped together in Capen Hall.

Also helping the dormitory occupancy rate is a group of Ulster County Community College students living in the New Paltz dorms, an arrangement Dillahun had sought. Many of the UCCC students are in the UCCC athletic program, and were from outside the area with no other convenient place to stay near the Stone Ridge campus.

Some other factors have influenced the New Paltz dorm turnaround, Dillahun felt. He believed there was a shortage of housing off campus, which may have kept some students in the dorms. Also, the college had been predicting a short fall in enrollment for this year, but made it up by registration time. Some of these last minute additions to the campus wound up in the college's dorms.

Now that he has more students in the dorms, Dillahun's problem is keeping them there. Actually, the problem at New Paltz has never been getting students to try the dorms. Dillahun explained last spring that about 90 per cent of each freshman class begins its college career in the dorms. If they stayed there, New Paltz Dormitory occupancy problem would be over.

"We have to keep the residents happy," said Dillahun. "We have to provide a greater study environment, and keep the dorms quiet, clean, and secure."

WHITA Members to Hear About Stewart

KINGSTON — A presentation by a representative of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority on the future of Stewart Airport will be featured at the annual meeting of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association (WHITA) Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the George Washington School on Wall Street.

Mrs. Alice Tipp, WHITA president, said today "We want to get the public out on this. We think it is necessary for everyone to be fully informed on this vital issue."

The presentation, entitled "Stewart Airport and What It Means to Ulster County and the Hudson Valley," will be made by MTA representative Michael J. Fiumarelli.

Part of the presentation will be an automated slide and sound show, with a question and answer period following.

Following the program, election of directors for WHITA will be held. Candidates may be nominated from the floor by members of the organization, according to Mrs. Tipp.

The directors represent taxpayers and their problems in all areas of the county. Membership in WHITA is open. Dues are two dollars a year.

Britain Retreats In Cod War

LONDON (AP) — Britain retreated in its cod war with Iceland today, ordering its naval shield of three frigates and three tugs out of the disputed 50-mile fishing zone proclaimed by the Icelandic government.

Prime Minister Edward Heath in a note to the Icelandic government said the British protective ships were being withdrawn "on the assumption that the Icelandic authorities will not take any measures against British trawlers fishing, or which have fished, in the disputed area."

"The navy and the tugs will return if this assumption proves to be wrong," Heath added.

He said the frigates and tugs would be out of the disputed area by 11 a.m. EDT on Wednesday.

Heath at the same time proposed negotiations in London for an agreement to allow British trawlers to fish in the disputed zone. Iceland unilaterally extended its fishing waters from 12 miles beyond the shores of the North Atlantic island to 50 miles despite the protests of the British and other foreign governments.

Premier Olafur Johannesson's government told Heath last week that, unless the British naval shield was withdrawn by midnight tonight, Iceland would break diplomatic relations with Britain. Both are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Or-

State Develops New Blood Test To Combat VD

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state Health Department has developed a simple, fast blood test for gonorrhea that is expected to help significantly in stemming the spread of the venereal disease.

Health Commissioner Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham announced the introduction of the new test Monday and said it "represents a major breakthrough in the worldwide battle to combat the venereal disease epidemic."

Ingraham said the testing program would begin this week and would reach more than 100,000 persons, mostly women, over the next 12 months.

He said the initial one-year program would be limited to taking blood samples from people attending family planning centers across the state, with their consent.

The new procedure permits the testing of blood samples for gonococcal infection in less than two hours, Ingraham said, thereby facilitating speedy treatment.

The previous, bacteriological method, which will be retained as the final diagnostic test, involving taking a vaginal smear, placing it on a culture medium and sending it to an Albany laboratory where it might take up to five days for the organisms to grow.

The commissioner said control of the spread of gonorrhea has been hampered in the past because 80 per cent of infected women show no symptoms of the disease.

The program will be the first state-supported, statewide venereal disease screening effort in the nation, he said.

Six Dead, 2 Escapees Are Charged

FORT THOMAS, Ky. (AP) — Two prison escapees were arrested today and charged with killing six persons, including a minister and two of his children, during their flight across Kentucky.

The two were identified as Wilmer Scott, 35, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and William Sloan, 24, of Louisville. The men, who fled federal custody were captured shortly before 2 a.m. EDT at Fort Thomas, just across the Ohio River from Cincinnati. They were held by Campbell County authorities.

Details of the capture were not immediately available.

They were charged with willful murder in the shooting deaths of three members of one family, killed at their home near Lexington, and three other persons, slain at Fishers Motel in Falmouth, 25 miles south of here.

Authorities identified the members of the Lexington family as the Rev. John K. Barnes, 47; his daughter Francien, 18; and his son John E., 14.

Two of the victims at the motel were identified as David and Monroe Sizemore of Hyden, Ky. The third victim was the motel manager who was not immediately identified.

Another two persons were wounded in the motel shootings. They were treated at a local hospital and released.

Lexington Metro Police said the Barnes were found shot to death in their home shortly before 4 a.m. Lexington police said the prisoners told state po-

3 New Murders Rock St. Croix

CHRISTIANSTEDT, ST. CROIX, V.I. (UPI) — Three new murders shook this racially troubled Caribbean island today on the eve of the American lieutenant governors conference. All the victims were white.

Police said the bodies of two American school teachers, Cheryl Barr of Florida and Betsy Reeding of Connecticut, were found Monday night. They had been missing since going on a swimming excursion to Ha'penny Bay Sunday. Police said both were in their mid-twenties.

Also Monday night, Henry Berry, about 35, a French immigrant from St. Bart's Island, was shot to death as he left The Galloway Night Club in Christianstedt.

The teachers from Grove Place public school in Midwestern St. Croix had left to go swimming on the south shore about noon Sunday. When they did not return by Monday morning, their landlady called the school, and when told they were not there, notified the police.

Police did not disclose immediately how the two were murdered, nor who found the bodies.

Miss Reeding's car was found in the bushes not far from where the girls lived, about three miles from where the bodies were found.

Ed Simons, proprietor of The Galloway, said Berry had exchanged words with a group of five young blacks loitering at the entrance when he entered the night club. The five came inside and began insulting patrons, Simons said, and he pushed the oldest youth out the door, getting hit with a stick.

McCulley joined the State Police in 1968 after he had worked as a mailroom clerk for the troopers. He was a recipient of the highest commendation awarded to State Police.

Railroad Advice
A representative of the U. S. Railroad Retirement Board will be at the New York State Employment Office, 16 Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston, Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 9:30 a.m. He will assist the railroad worker, his wife, widow or survivors in retirement and survivor problems and answer any inquiries in connection with the Railroad Retirement and Unemployment Insurance Acts.

City Judge Hubert A. Richter adjourned the case until Oct. 15, for submission of memoranda by attorneys. No date was set for sentencing.

Suicide Verdict In Man's Death

NEW PALTZ — A verdict of suicide has been issued in the Sunday death of Wesley Van Vliet, 61, of South Ohioville Road, New Paltz, by Coroner Richard M. Buono.

Van Vliet, a New Paltz automobile dealer, was found shot to death at his garage Sunday night. Police said a .32 caliber handgun and a suicide note were found near Van Vliet's body.

Investigation
City detectives said today that investigation is continuing into two shootings, one fatal, which occurred in Kingston Sunday and Monday. John Day was found dead early Monday at 86 Hone Street. He was shot with a 22 caliber rifle, police said, but it has not been definitely determined whether the wound was self-inflicted. Lila Butler, 23, of 9 Hasbrouck Place was shot Sunday night and was listed in good condition today at Albany Medical Center Hospital. Further details were unavailable, but police said investigation is continuing.

Trooper Dead, Contacted Hepatitis

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A State Police narcotics investigator died here Monday after contracting hepatitis while on the job.

Officials at the Albany Medical Center Hospital reported that Bruce McCulley, 28, of Fultonville, died from the disease after being hospitalized for a month.

He contacted the disease while handling serums and needles used in identifying and analyzing narcotics, State Police said. He picked up the disease working on a narcotics case in the Lower Hudson Valley, they added.

McCulley joined the State Police in 1968 after he had worked as a mailroom clerk for the troopers. He was a recipient of the highest commendation awarded to State Police.

Chaplin's

"THE KING IN

NEW YORK"

Made and released in England in 1957, after his self-imposed exile, THE KING IN NEW YORK has been variously described as "a gentle spoof of American insanity", "a bitter denunciation", "Chaplin's finest satire and his worst". Whatever it may be, when it was released in Canada a small theatre on the U. S. border was besieged by busloads of fans from the U. S., and it was not until Hollywood's public apology in the form of a special Academy award that Chaplin released it directly to the U. S.

Fall Fashion Show
Wednesday: Shokan

Plans for a "Dutch Maid" fashion show were finalized at the fall meeting of American Legion Auxiliary of Olive Memorial Post 1627 which took place in Ashokan. The show is planned for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion home. Public is invited.

Newly installed president, Dora Grant, conducted the meeting. Other officers included Helene Wells, first vice president; Catherine Hesley, second vice president; Dorothy Adsit, secretary; Mabel Weidner, treasurer; Marge Trowbridge, chaplain; Belle Wood, historian; Bertha Duloft, sergeant-at-arms.

A covered dish supper was served to both the Legion and Auxiliary. After the meetings heard a report by Boy's Stater Paul Malak who, together with his parents, were guests of the Legion.

Any member of the Auxiliary or Legion who is ill or in need of transportation should notify the chaplain, Marge Trowbridge of Vly Road, Stone Ridge.

The next meeting is scheduled for December 15. A covered dish supper and Christmas party will be held.

Family Thief Caught ... Purple-Handed!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote that a member of her family had been consistently stealing money out of her purse — fives, tens, twenties — but she had no way of knowing for sure who the guilty party was. You suggested that she keep her purse locked up.

I have a better idea, which I used when we had that problem in our house. I got some gentian violet crystals from a pharmacist. It's an invisible powder which when sprinkled on an object will leave dark purple stains on the hands of anyone who touches that object. The stains are impossible to wash off — they must wear off.

I carefully dusted some money with this powder. The next day the money was gone — but the culprit showed up with purple hands! If you use this letter, please omit my name. The thief in our house has learned his lesson.

SHERLOCK: Thanks for the suggestion, but to catch a thief purple-handed, one needs the cooperation of a physician, because I'm advised that a prescription is required to obtain gentian violet crystals.

DEAR ABBY: I have this favorite Aunt Edna who lives out of town. Last Christmas she sent me a lovely personal gift, but she didn't send my husband Al anything. She is not an ignorant woman, so I can't understand her actions. Al is very fond of her, and I knew he'd be hurt if he knew she forgot him, so I bought him a very expensive tie, had it gift-wrapped, and told him it was from Aunt Edna.

I write all the thank-you notes, so Al assumed I thanked Aunt Edna for the tie.

The few times during the year we saw Aunt Edna I was scared to death Al would say something about the "beautiful tie" she sent him, and she wouldn't know what he was talking about.

I don't want her to forget Al again this Christmas, but I haven't the nerve to tell her. Please help me.

DREADING CHRISTMAS: DEAR DREADING: Come right out and tell Aunt Edna how you covered for her last Christmas, and ask her please to remember Al this year because he is so fond of her he'd be hurt if he knew she forgot him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 74 years old and have been a widow since the age of 29. I raised 5 children and 12 grandchildren, and what a thankless job I had. My biggest problem is loneliness. But the reason for my loneliness is the fact that I am poor. Young people today don't want us older folks around unless we are well fixed and can do for them.

I have a sister who married well. She is two years older than I am, and she has never known a lonely hour. Her children and grandchildren flock around her like bees. She is always handing out money and presents, and they treat her like she is some kind of queen.

I have nothing to give, so I am ignored. I am not helpless yet, and God forbid I ever should be, because I'd be dumped into a state home and forgotten. Money is power.

POWERLESS

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I and our children are invited to someone's home for supper, I always ask if they plan to serve the kids the same dinner as they serve the grownups. The reason is that some people will serve steaks for the grownups, and give the kids hamburgers.

I feel that if my children are not going to get what the grownups get I would just as soon feed them a good dinner and leave them home.

I have been criticized for my attitude, but I happen to believe I am right.

What do you think?

ANONYMOUS: DEAR ANONYMOUS: Most children prefer hamburgers to steak anyway, but regardless, it's poor manners to ask a hostess what she intends to serve.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.S. IN THE BUCKEYE STATE: Isn't it strange that so many people will spend hours each week in physical exercise to keep their bodies "fit" — but they never give a thought to keeping their characters strong and healthy?

About the Folks

Samuel J. Herzog of 7 Washington Avenue, Kingston, is convalescing at home after undergoing surgery.

LADIES SOCIETY OF SANTA MARIA, now observing its 25th anniversary, recently presented a pledge of $10,000 toward the construction of a new building to be built just south of their present location in Kingston. Pictured here at a late summer benefit bazaar are (L-R) Mrs. Vincent Carputo, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Tiano, co-chairman; Mrs. Susan Benicase; and Mrs. Donald Komasa, president. The bazaar was held in conjunction with an annual religious feast, co-sponsored by the Society and St. Mary's Benevolent Society. (Freeman photo by Haines)

This Is National Beauty Salon Week

This week, the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association is sponsoring National Beauty Salon Week. It is a salute to all those salons which are responsible for the care and beauty guidance of its millions of customers.

A proclamation signed by Mayor Francis R. Koenig has set aside October 1-7 as Salon Week. Representing the Association in Ulster County are members of Kingston Affiliate 69, NHCA. Irene Mance of Kerhonkson is currently serving as president while Carol Dawber, also of Kerhonkson, is publicity chairman.

NHCA was founded in 1921 and has its headquarters in St. Louis, Mo. Along with its informational activities at the local, state and national level, it goes international from time to time, even sponsors a team for the World Hair-styling Olympics and International Beauty Show.

Right now, the Association has more than 60,000 members in the 50 states and Washington, D.C. and sends them a topical trade publication, American Hairdresser/Salon Owner, filled with news and features of interest. These often cover interior decorating ideas for the customer's comfort, suggestions for lighting fixtures in areas where facials are given or beauty products applied. It's a joint venture to make the whole salon experience a relaxing and enjoyable one.

Locally, members of Kingston Affiliate 69 do a great deal of non-profit work. Working with the Welfare Department, they make home visits taking beauty care to those who either can't afford it or can't leave their homes. Members of the local association also work with Renaissance and the Ellenville Hospital. They are currently engaged in a benefit for the Ulster County Association for Children With Learning Disabilities. Details about this program will be announced in November.

Belly Dancing Classes at YMCA

A Belly Dance Class, will be held for women beginning Friday, Oct. 5, at the YMCA. Rima Bakouradze, will be the instructor for the 10-week session.

Rima (a stage name which is Arabic for deer) learned her hip and shoulder shimmying from an Egyptian friend in her hometown of Los Angeles, California. Rima says "Belly Dancing is a misnomer for Oriental and Mid Eastern Dancing, is no Strip tease." Rima goes on, "Belly Dancing is good physical exercise and helps build or perhaps more accurately rebuild the body. While the hip bumps and body circles can't add inches to a woman's figure, it can do a lot to put what's there in the right places," she says.

Rima is a graduate of University of California at Berkeley. Her training includes professional folk dance at U.C.L.A. Middle East Dance with Leona Harland, and a year in Madras and New INSTRUCTOR Rima during one of her recitals. She will be the instructor for Belly Dancing classes at the local YMCA.

Delhi, India. She has received scholarships from faculty wives at U.C.L.A., Phi Beta Kappa at U. of C. at Berkeley and a Fulbright scholarship to India for Music and Dance.

Professionally, Rima has performed solo Middle Eastern Dance in clubs around Los Angeles, Fresno and San Francisco. She is a homemaker for her husband, who teaches at SUNY at New Paltz, and the mother of two children. In addition, she is working on her Master's Degree and is sound coordinator and a film grant team member for H.E.W. Office of International Programs.

Registrations for this class will be taken in person immediately on a first come basis as the class is limited to 15 women.

THE YMCA is a member of the Ulster County United Way.

TUG MCGRAW'S BATTLE CRY: "YOU GOTTA BELIEVE"

Those Amazin' Mets Wouldn't Give Up

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tug McGraw summarized it best. "We never gave up," he said. "We all felt that if we could have a healthy ball club, we could be a good ball club. But when you have all those injuries, it seemed to get worse with every one and it was very demoralizing."

But after the New York Mets' National League East Division championship-clinching 6-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday, McGraw described the elation in the champagne-sprayed dressing room. "It's a great feeling to have had to struggle," he said, "like climbing a glass mountain, and finally to be able to find some pine tar and lay it on that mountain and get to the top."

The Mets' victory in the first game of a scheduled double-header gave New York 82 wins for the season, one more than St. Louis had attained and one more than Pittsburgh could attain. Thus the Mets won the title, advancing to the National League playoffs in Cincinnati Saturday with the fewest victories ever achieved by a championship team in major league baseball.

The triumph represented a climb from last place, 12 games behind, in July to the pinnacle, bases loaded single for two and Manager Yogi Berra declared "we had to jump over and a sacrifice fly produced everybody. The players wanted to win and they hung in there and bounced back. It was a team job."

Berra particularly cited McGraw, whose save Monday was his 25th of the season giving him 11 saves and 4 wins in his last 16 appearances. But Berra declared Felix Millan, his "only every day ball player," Rusty Staub, who had four hits in the pennant-clinching win, Wayne Garrett, Bud Harrelson and Cleon Jones as major factors.

"We're a team," Jones said. "That's it in a nutshell. I never worried. The Cubs had it and couldn't stay there. St. Louis had it and couldn't stay there, but they've got a lot of heart and hung in there."

"I didn't want the Pirates to get up there, because they're an awesome hitting club, and if they get eight in front, you're dead."

"We do the little things," he added. We've already proved to a lot of people that we're a good club, and now we've got to prove it to Cincinnati."

The Mets, with Tom Seaver going for his 19th victory, never trailed the Cubs in the clinching game after Jones hit his 11th homer, his sixth in the last 10 games. Jerry Grote delivered a bases loaded single for two runs, and a double, two singles declared "we had to jump over and a sacrifice fly produced everybody. The players wanted two more."

But Seaver, after allowing 11 hits, got in trouble in the seventh and McGraw had to take over. He faced only nine batters, striking out four, and when pinch hitter Glenn Beckert lined into a double play to end the game, the Mets' dugout exploded.

So did the dressing room, with cases of champagne. But for many players, it was canned beer from a bucket of ice. The champagne was for throwing as much as drinking, the beer for refreshment.

After all, it's Cincinnati on Saturday for a World Series berth.

CHAMPAGNE SHOWER FOR WILLIE MAYS

Reds Wanted Bucs or Expos

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Sparky Anderson expected it but he would have preferred Pittsburgh or Montreal in the National League playoffs than the Mets.

"I said the Mets all along during the last couple weeks," said the Cincinnati manager.

Anderson said hitters would be at a disadvantage facing the 4 p.m. sun at Riverfront Stadium, particularly against pitchers like Tom Seaver, Jerry Kossman and John Matalack. Anderson said he expected to face Seaver twice in the best-of-five series to determine the league pennant winner.

Anderson indicated he planned to use lefthander Don Gullett, 19-8, in the opening game Saturday.

"That afternoon sun is a definite advantage for pitchers who throw low and hard like me," said Gullett earlier. Anderson had said the remaining games will be hurled by Jack Billingham, 19-8, Ross Grimsley and Fred Norman "but not necessarily in that order."

Meanwhile, a cloud hung over the Reds clubhouse when outfielder Bobby Tolson was removed from the roster. Tolson, who suffered a season long slump hitting .206, was unavailable for comment.

He was suspended the last three games of the season in his second run-in in a month with management.

Paavo Nurmi Dies; First Great Runner

HELSINKI (UPI) — Paavo Nurmi, one of the world's first great long distance runners and greatest of all Finnish sportsmen, died today in Helsinki, the Finnish radio said. He was 76.

The Finnish afternoon newspaper Ilta-Sanomat said Nurmi died in his home in Helsinki this morning after a long illness. He was born June 13, 1897.

A middle distance runner, Nurmi won seven gold and three silver medals in three official world records during Olympic games and smashed 20 official world records during his career.

During his peak form in 1921-31 his only real competitor in the whole world was the stopwatch he always had in his hand during a race.

He ran in the Olympic games in Antwerp in 1920, in Paris in 1924 and in Amsterdam in 1928. In Paris he scored his biggest triumphs winning four gold medals.

Nurmi, known as the Flying Finn, was the running sensation of the 1920s and was one of the world's great drawing cards as he shattered world records.

Nurmi won the 1,500 and 5,000-meter events at the 1924 Olympics and broke into international prominence with a sensational performance at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 7, 1925.

With 8,000 screaming fans jamming the Garden, Nurmi set world records for 5,000 and 1,500 meters and became a national hero in the U.S.

Running as many as five nights a week, Nurmi drew capacity crowds wherever he went and turned in another spectacular performance on Feb. 14, 1925 in a match race when he beat a fellow Finn in a world record for two miles—eight minutes, 58.2 seconds.

During the 1920s, he set 24 world records ranging from the mile to the marathon. Among the times were 4:10.4 in the mile, 14:28.2 in the 5,000 meters and 30:06.2 in the 10,000 meters.

During his U.S. tour, he raced 55 times in 140 days and lost only once—an 880-yard sprint which he said was too short for him.

One of the highlights of his career came at the age of 35 when he was selected to carry the Olympic Torch at the Helsinki Olympics. He retired from competition in 1933 and became a successful building contractor.

Nurmi, a sullen stoical man whose trademark became the stopwatch he carried in his hand while running, was a firm believer in conditioning and was a capable runner even into his 50s.

A great runner must train all year round," was Nurmi's theory and he practiced it diligently. "I trained hard and for a long time, maybe longer than I should have, but it paid me back."

Nurmi was one of the few runners who didn't believe the four-minute mile was unattainable, though he never did break the mark himself.

"I don't see any reason to make a fuss about it," he said when England's Roger Bannister broke the four-minute barrier on May 6, 1954. "Forty years ago it was as miraculous to run the 1,500 meters under four minutes. A mile under four minutes is wonderful but it has been slow progress at that. I really took a lot of time for the athletes to make it. I had expected it a long time ago."

Nurmi's philosophy of running was that any record could be broken.

"With good training facilities and well-balanced psychological training which conditions a runner's mind to believe he can accomplish these things, it is possible to beat any record. You just take time to train, wait for fine weather, have pacemakers help you out and any day it can happen."

"As the years went on, anybody who trained harder than I did broke my records."

His career ended in 1932, on the eve of the Los Angeles Olympic games, when the International Athletics Association proclaimed him professional, thus preventing him from winning the Olympic marathon, his longtime dream. The proclamation was given without investigation as a warning to others, who were suspected of accepting extra travel expenses.

No other runner ever remained at the top so long, broke so many records over so many distances nor won as many Olympic medals as Nurmi.

Nurmi had not been well for several years, suffering from various illnesses. In August he had an eye operation and he was also hard of hearing.

In a telephone interview after the eye operation he said, "my condition is not the best but what do you expect at this age?" Two months earlier, when asked how he felt, he pointed to his chest and said, "Inside I feel myself rotting."

Leo Quits Baseball for Good

HOUSTON (UPI)—Leo Durocher, a baseball fixture for almost half the history of the sport, bowed to the wishes of his wife Monday and resigned as manager of the Houston Astros. He said he was leaving baseball for good.

"Baseball has been 45 years of a wonderful life," said Durocher, manager of four National League clubs and one of the most colorful figures the sport has ever known.

"But I have got a lot of things to do now. I'm going out to Palm Springs and I'm going to tee it up and play a lot of golf. I'll be back to visit the boys."

When pressed, however, as to whether his departure from the Astros could be looked upon as a retirement, he just said: "Yes."

Houston General Manager H. B. "Spec" Richardson quickly filled the vacant managerial post with Preston Gomez, a coach for the Astros under Durocher and a former manager of the San Diego Padres.

"I tried to talk Leo out of it," said Richardson. "I regretted his decision."

Durocher, 67, had taken over the Houston job late in the 1972 season when Richardson fired Harry Walker. The Astros finished second in 1972 and this year had been expected to challenge for the National League West title.

Instead they wound up in fourth place with an 82-80 record, 17 games behind Cincinnati.

Twice during the season Durocher was hospitalized with an inflamed intestine, but he said his health was not a factor in his retiring.

"Hell, I feel fine," Durocher said. "My wife had been after me to resign, though. She did not want me to come back this year in the first place. She had a lot to do with it."

Mrs. Ruth Sets Record Straight on the Babe

NEW YORK (AP)—As a Babe Ruth's hallowed record of 714 home runs, the Babe's widow wants to set another record—straight—her husband was no final game.

"They ask me how I feel and I tell them it makes no difference. The Atlanta slugger was just once to me. It doesn't. I don't want to set another record failing to hit a home run in the Nothing can hurt the Babe's name."

"An awful lot of people have said that about the Babe," said Claire Ruth, a frail but militant little lady in her 70s. "It is absolutely not true."

"On the contrary, the Babe hated crowds, night clubs and things like that. After a game, friends would come around and beg him to go to the 21 Club or some place like that."

"The Babe always would refuse. We would go home and have a couple of beers. Sometimes a few close friends might drop in—usually not baseball or sports people."

Mrs. Ruth and Mrs. Lou Gehrig, whose late husband was an all-time Yankee great who set a record of playing in 2,130 consecutive games, were special guests Monday at ceremonies marking the beginning of a $27 million face-lifting job on historic Yankee Stadium, the scene of 27 pennants and 20 World Series triumphs by the New York American League team.

Mrs. Ruth was presented the last home plate used in the 50-year-old ball park and Mrs. Gehrig was given the first base at a stadium ritual presided over by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Only the outside walls of the stadium will remain intact as all seats in the 65,010-capacity park will be yanked out and replaced by wider and more comfortable seats. Tiers which obstruct the view will be erased, the press box and lounge rooms will be improved and parking facilities will be expanded.

The refurbishing will not be completed until early in 1976. The Yankees will play in Shea Stadium during the 1974 and 1975 seasons.

Mrs. Ruth said she had received hundreds of telephone calls from people who said they were happy that Hank Aaron failed to break Ruth's home

Houk To Tigers?

DETROIT (UPI)—Ex-New York Yankees Manager Ralph Houk is definitely in the running to become the next manager of the Detroit Tigers—but the big question is: does he want the job?

Tigers General Manager Jim Campbell called a news conference Monday as speculation that Houk is about to get the nod mounted.

"Certainly, I'm interested in him (Houk), but this doesn't mean I have him in my pocket by any means," Campbell said.

"I consider Houk one of the most qualified managers in baseball, and if he wants to manage again, I'd say he's a candidate for the Tiger job—a very high candidate."

Houk left the Yankees when the season ended Sunday and reportedly was driving to Florida for a rest.

SAUGERTIES glad to see him finally connect. The strong offensive play of Herb Kantor and John Ivankovic coupled with a stiff defensive effort sparked by Eric Lippincott and Jay Werbalowsky enabled Kingston High School to score a 2-0 Dutchess County Scholastic League victory over Saugerties High here Monday.

The win snapped a two-game Kingston losing streak and lifted the Maroons' record to 4-2. Saugerties, meanwhile, took its second straight on the chin and fell to 2-2-1 in the league standings.

"We dominated the first three quarters," said Kingston coach John Hunter, "then in the fourth quarter Saugerties brought the game to us but we were able to hold them off."

Herb Kantor put the Maroons ahead at 13:00 of the third quarter when he took a pass from his brother Steve and batted it by Sawyer goalie Scott Hunter.

The game stayed at 1-0 until the 9:30 mark of the third quarter when junior David Farrell took a cross from Herb Kantor and headed the ball into the net. It was the second time this season Farrell has scored on such a play.

Herb Kantor was particularly impressive for KHS.

"The goal he scored was on his fifth shot of the game," explained Hunter. "We were

Wilt's Case To Courts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The NBA Los Angeles Lakers and the ABA San Diego Conquistadors went to court Monday for possession of Wilt Chamberlain.

Chamberlain, basketball's most prolific scorer, last week jumped from the Lakers to the fledgling Conquistadors as a player-coach with a reported salary of $600,000 a year for the next three years.

In a suit filed in Superior Court here, the Lakers sought to block Chamberlain from playing with the San Diego club this season, claiming that the giant center breached his contract by jumping to the Q's.

The suit, filed by California Sports, owner and operator of the Lakers, said the Los Angeles club would be "irreparably damaged" if Chamberlain played for San Diego and cited his "extraordinary skills."

After the Lakers' action was taken, a suit was filed in San Diego on behalf of Chamberlain and the Conquistadors aimed at getting a quick decision on whether the 7-foot-1 giant will be able to play with the ABA club in 1973-74.

Conquistadors' owner Leonard Bloom said the suit asks damages and declaratory relief and is based on the Cartwright Act, which is aimed at protecting the rights of players.

The Lakers suit does not seek monetary damages, but asks the court to prevent Chamberlain from playing with any other team than Los Angeles in the new season.

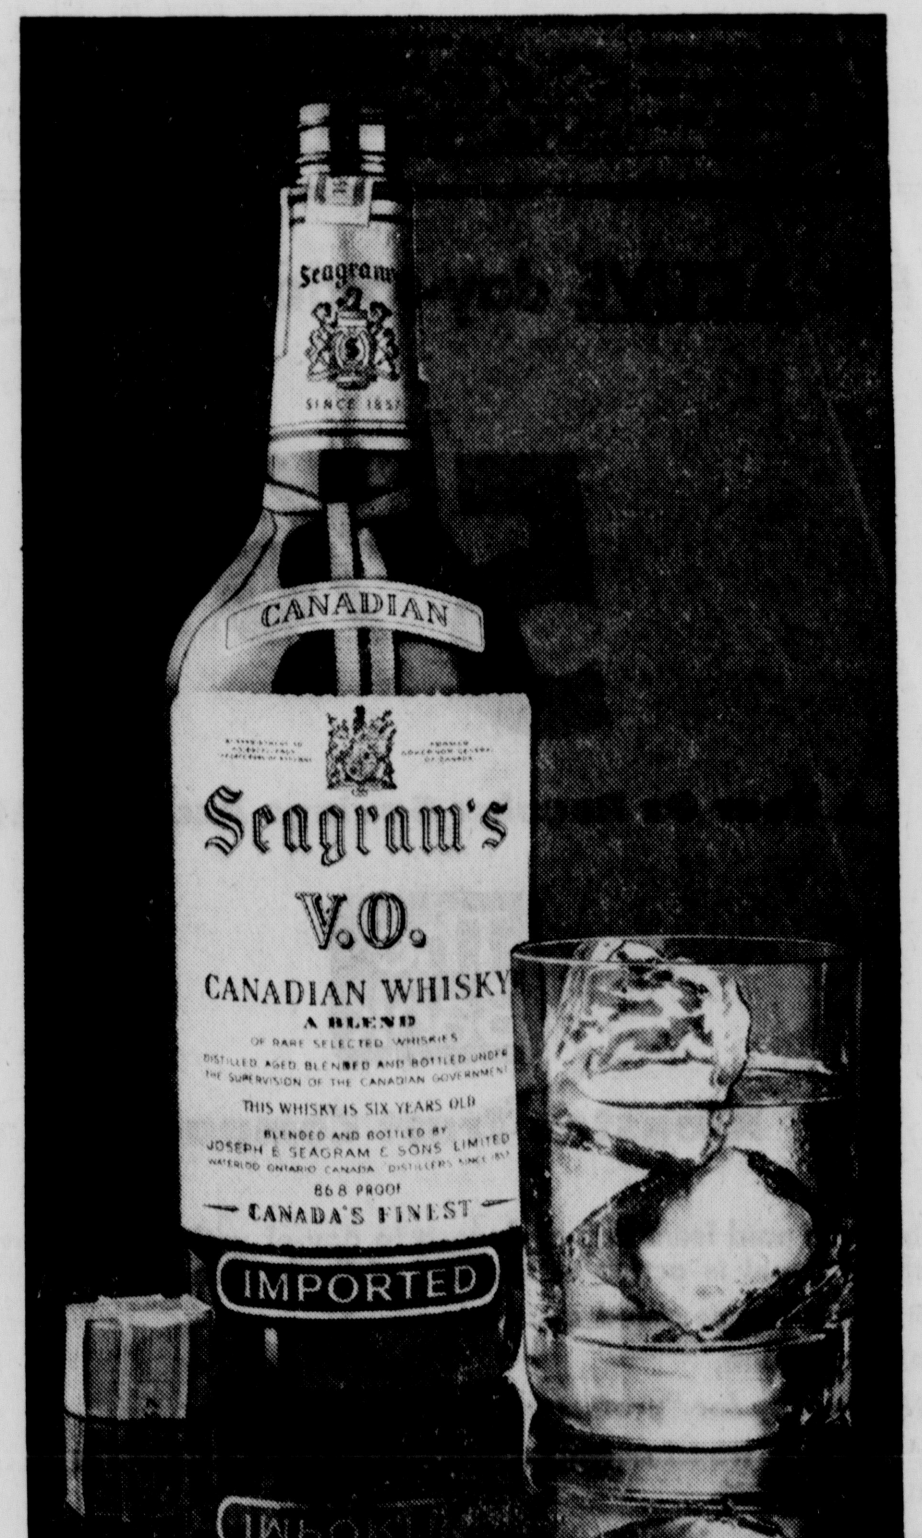

According to the Lakers' suit, Chamberlain contract, which expired Monday, was automatically renewed for one year because the center failed to sign himself out of it.

Superior Court Judge Campbell Lucas set Oct. 10 for a hearing on a preliminary injunction which would bar Chamberlain from playing for San Diego.

JERRY HAWKINS TOM GALLO

Hawkins, Gallo Pace Braves

Official Hudson Valley Rookie League statistics today revealed that veteran shortstop Jerry Hawkins led the Kingston Braves baseball team with a .529 batting average for the season concluded last month.

Hawkins had 27 hits in 51 times up with three homers and 19 runs batted in. Tom Gallo led the club in RBI's with 20 and triples with three. Hawkins and Skip Lyons tied for the team lead in runs scored with 18. Player-Manager Gary Dross had four doubles to top the Braves in that offensive department.

Rookie Bill Schiller was the club's top hurler with a 6-0 record. En route to compiling the perfect mark, Schiller, the former New Paltz High School pitcher, tossed a no-hitter against the Newburgh Nationals.

Gallo was the losing pitcher in all five of Kingston's defeats. Gallo also won five. The Braves were 16-5 overall Gallo had a team high 83 strikeouts in a team high 69 and two-thirds innings. He also led the pitchers in bases on balls with 54. Other pitching stats were: Bob Marz, 2-0; Mike Alecca, 2-0; and Jim Breene, 1-0. Four of Kingston's five losses were to league champion Poughkeepsie. The other was on opening day to Beacon. The Braves were second to Poughkeepsie in both the first and second half Northern Division races.

Hawk Booters Lose

PLATTSBURGH Jeremy Harrocks, an exchange student from England, booted home two first-half goals to pace Plattsburgh State to a 3-1 victory over New Paltz State in the opener of the State of New York Athletic Conference soccer season. The loss was the first for New Paltz after three wins and a tie.

Harrocks scored at 20:43 and 32:41 to help Plattsburgh to a 3-0 halftime lead. Don Peterkin averted a Hawk shutout with a goal at 39:51 of the second half after a furious scrimmage in front of the Plattsburgh net.

Plattsburgh led in shot on goal, 143 and corner kicks, 43. The Hawk goalie had seven saves, the Plattsburgh goalie five.

Montgomery Named Ref

BLOOMINGTON George Montgomery, a former athletic instructor and boxing trainer, has been certified as a professional boxing wrestling referee in New York State. The announcement was made by Edwin Dooley, State Athletic Commissioner.

Montgomery taught hand-to-hand combat in the armed forces, as well as working with football, basketball and other sports. He trained many Golden Glove boxers throughout the country and was wrestling official in the south in the 1950's.

He played on a championship volleyball team and holds a record for serving without the other team getting the ball. Montgomery is well known in the area for various benefits he has participated in and has wrestled at Walkkill Prison and Highland School for Boys.

East Leaders Breeze

SAUGERTIES East Division action saw two unbeaten leaders fatten up on second division squads, as Fire Department hosted Palenville's Pride, 43-15, and State Farm Insurance routed Alpha Cement, 37-0, in the SAA Touch Football League. FI now has a 3-0 record, State Farm and Raiders each have 2-0-1.

Firemen quarterback Mouse Wolven hit three favorite receivers with two TD passes each—Hank Sommers (5 and 44 yards); Al Short (25 and 14); Butch Tomaeskie (1 and 5). George Engler of Palenville hit Ed Gillespie with 2 and 53 yards.

Jack Warns of State Farm Insurance connected with John Carnright three times, from 53, 2 and 52 yards. He also hit Ray Bean (30) and Dee White (24). Carnright passed 4 yards to Rich Reese.

Worker Killed In One Car Accident

TOWN OF MARLBOROUGH
A 28-year-old migrant worker was killed Monday evening in the Town of Marlborough when the car he was driving went out of control on Milton Turnpike, slammed into an embankment and overturned.
Highland State Police identified the dead man as Wade Kilgore of Lakeland, Fla. It was not immediately known what caused the vehicle to go out of control, police said.
Kilgore, who suffered massive head injuries in the mishap, was pronounced dead at the scene. The accident occurred at 6:50 p.m. about two miles west of Route 9W, police said.
Meanwhile, three teenagers were hospitalized following two separate one-car auto accidents Monday in the Towns of Marlborough and Wawarsing.

Raymond Hines, 17, of Box 372A, Kingston, was listed in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital after the car he was driving ran off Rest Plauss Road in the Town of Marlborough Monday afternoon and slammed into a tree. Ellenville State Police issued Hines a summons for operating a motor vehicle with a learner's permit.
In the Town of Wawarsing, Robert Morse, 17, of Spring Glen, and Leroy McKendall, 14, of Ellenville received multiple injuries Monday night when the car Morse was operating on Route 209 ran off the right side of the roadway, struck a guard rail, went back across the road, struck a sign and went over a guard rail, overturning several times.
Both youths were listed in fair condition today at Ellenville Community Hospital. Ellenville State Police said McKendall was thrown through the windshield of the car.

Morse was issued summonses for speed not reasonable and prudent and driving with a junior operator's license after dark. The mishap occurred at about 11 p.m., police said.
In another Town of Marlborough mishap Monday, Frank K. Clarke, 80, of Shokan escaped serious injury when the car he was driving on Route 209 slammed into a utility pole. Hurley State Police said Clarke apparently lost control of the vehicle due to faulty steering linkage.
He was treated and released at Kingston Hospital after suffering a laceration of the forehead and chest contusion in the crash.

In another area mishap, two persons were treated and released at Kingston Hospital following a two-car crash in the Town of Saugerties Monday night. Injured in the crash were Toni R. Franchini, 17, of Route 1, Box 73AA, Saugerties, and a passenger in the car she was driving, Kathy Dupre of Route 2, Box 433, Saugerties.
Saugerties Town Police said the Franchini car was stopped at the intersection of Blue Mountain Road and Route 212 when it was in collision with a vehicle operated by John Adams, 26, of White Plains. Adams was issued summonses for driving while intoxicated and failure to keep right. The mishap occurred at about 8 p.m.

Rebels Advance, Gov't Troops Refuse to Fight

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two columns of rebel troops advanced on Phnom Penh in a broad arc south of the city today while west of the capital, 100 government troops reportedly refused to fight until they receive back pay and more food.
The insurgents inched toward the city after sealing off a siege ring around the refugee-swollen capital. Cambodian field commanders said the situation was "grave" and one officer said an estimated 1,000 rebels had massed on the south bank of the Prek Thnot River 11 miles south of Phnom Penh. Commanders said government forces have lost four key outposts south of the city in the past four days during the rebel drive.

On Highway 4 about 33 miles west of Phnom Penh, field reports said a company of government soldiers refused to fight, claiming they were not receiving enough food and had not been paid in two months.
"We have been fighting for three days without provisions," one of the soldiers said. "We have also not been paid for two months. We are marching back to claim our pay and whenever we get the pay we will come back and continue the fight."

battle-weary government de-military command in Phnom fenders in heavy fighting. Penh had only sent a few Field commanders south of additional men.
The capital told visiting news- men today they were badly in need of reinforcements to hold government troops recaptured back the advancing guerrilla a Buddhist temple three miles troops. They said they had north of Kompong Cham, asked for more soldiers, but the Cambodia's third largest city.

Troopers Intensify Search In Police Shooting Case

KEENE, N.Y. (AP) — More state troopers were due to be imported into the Adirondacks to pursue the third day of a search for a man accused of the shooting two police officers.

State Police said additional manpower from Troops C and D would join the effort today to find Paul St. John, 54, of Saranac Lake, accused of the shootings.

Troopers said Saranac Lake Patrolman Douglas Duquette, 27, may have shot St. John in the exchange of gunfire that critically wounded Zone Sgt. Paul A. Richter, 37, of Tupper Lake.

Monday from Keene-Keene Valley area to as far away as Elizabethtown, Underwood and Saranac Lake, troopers said.

A force of about 100 men including some conservation officers and forest rangers were involved in the search during the day Monday. They were aided by a helicopter and two teams of bloodhounds. At night, about 55 state troopers continued the effort.

Additional manpower was brought into the search Monday from Troop G, headquartered at Loudonville, near Albany. Men were to arrive today from Troop C, headquartered at Sidney, and Troop D, headquartered at Oneida.

Whether St. John was wounded will not be known until he is caught, State Police said Monday night. They said there has been no sign of blood, but that a wound would not necessarily produce heavy bleeding.

St. John was described as an experienced woodsman by police. He and Lyle Curry Sr., 36, were stopped by Richter and Duquette for questioning early Sunday morning about a burglary from a sporting goods shop.

Toastmasters and AIE

WAPPINGERS FALLS
A meeting of Toastmasters International and the American Institute of Industrial Engineers has been scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 9, at Marty's Place, downstairs, Route 9, Wappingers Falls.
Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock with the speaking portion of the program following.
Toastmasters Club is dedicated to the art of developing effective communication and leadership skills with a motto of for better listening, thinking and speaking.

The AIEE members, also striving toward this end, will have the opportunity to participate in table topic discussion.
P. Eisanhut may be contacted for reservations.

Dr. Jerome Davis said Monday that Richter was "showing some slight improvement." He declined to categorize his condition as critical, serious or fair. Earlier, the Plattsburgh hospital said Richter's legs were paralyzed.
Duquette was listed in satisfactory condition at Saranac Lake General Hospital. He was operated on for a stomach wound. A hospital official said, "He's improving nicely."

The search was expanded

Police said shots were exchanged and the pair sped off, followed by other policemen who heard the shots.
A 15-mile chase occurred before the car stopped and Curry was arrested. St. John fled into the woods, State Police said.

Turner Exec Turned Down Mexican Offer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — William C. Sant testified Monday he was offered the job of heading a Glenn Turner operation in Mexico but turned it down because the organization had not established any firm in that country.

Sant, former director of field operations for Koscot Interplanetary Cosmetics, said, "I sat there stunned," when Turner made the offer. He rejected it and said Turner turned to W. Leroy Beale with the offer.

"Beale said, 'Great, yes sir, I'll take it,'" Sant said.
Beale, Turner, lawyer F. Lee Bailey, and six others are on trial for alleged mail fraud in promoting Koscot, Dare To Be Great, and Glenn Turner Enterprises.

Teen-Ager Held In Attempted Murder Case

ONEONTA, N.Y. (UPI) — A teen-ager said to be absent without leave from the Navy faced City Court arraignment today on an attempted murder charge in the beating and stabbing of a 68-year-old woman.
Police identified the suspect as Donald R. Lester, 18, of Oneonta. They said they were notified several days ago that he was AWOL from the Navy at Norfolk, Va.

Police said Lester went to the apartment of Ethel P. Wilty Monday and choked, beat and stabbed her and took between $10 and $15 from her handbag.
The woman was stabbed three times in the abdomen with a pair of scissors but the wounds were not deep, police said. She was later reported in fair condition at Fox Hospital.

The woman apparently lay unconscious for several hours before rousing and calling a neighbor for help. Lester was arrested when he returned to the apartment building after police arrived.
The Wilty woman lives at 49 Valley View St. Lester's home is at 32 Franklin St.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, October 3

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Take care of all that work ahead of you and be cooperative with co-workers, or you could get into trouble. Evening is fine for creative interests. Discuss an important matter with a friend.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) The morning finds you under adverse aspects if engaged in disputes. The afternoon brings a highly ingenious means by which you can improve your health and vigor. Later you can find new ways to gain in financial matters.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Problems may arise in the morning but then you can get into worldly affairs with much success. Bring your talents to the attention of some bigwig who can give you a boost.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You could be quite depressed in the morning but later you will know how to operate on the practical level and get much done. Obtain advice from new contacts that can be very helpful to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Pay your bills early so that you need not worry about them any longer and you have better credit rating. If you control your temper, there can be happiness with mate this evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use diplomacy in the morning and avoid an argument with an associate, and by evening you have a fine understanding. Analyze the situation before handling a civic matter.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you plan early for the recreation you want, everything goes nicely for you later. Show devotion to those you really like. Help them with any problems they may have. Be logical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure that you control your temper in the morning and you find that the evening will be happy at home. Do some entertaining tonight. Invite only your true and trusted friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Being very careful in motion in the morning is important. Otherwise you could get into expensive trouble and not be able to make progress. Don't make a critical comment to an associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Money will not buy what it is you want today, so relegate important activities to the evening. Consult with an expert who knows his business and follow advice given you. Be calm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Stop blaming yourself for conditions you have no control over. Save your energy for one of those delightful young people who is a born organizer. Be sure to give the right kind of discipline that will make this a worthwhile and important life. Direct the education along business management or whatever is of a truly practical nature. Give good ethical training early in life.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

NO KISSES: (Q) I dig Sunny to death, but I am uncomfortable about one thing. She is always hinting that I should kiss her, or outright asking me to, but I never get around to it. I freeze up.

It is not that I don't like her. Maybe it is because I like her too much. I have never felt about a girl the way I feel about her. Can you help me? She is 16 and I am 15.—Backward in Pennsylvania.

(A) Sunny is a girl. No girl is too good to kiss. You will not be disrespectful to her in kissing her. You will not hurt or dirty her. So just relax and put your lips to hers.

Next time it will be easier, much easier. But do not overdo it.

ALWAYS RIGHT: (Q) I have a very close friend and I don't know how to treat her. You see, it's the very first time that I ever had a friend like her. The problem is she gets mad over little things and I'm the one who always has to give in. I keep wondering why she never gives in. I don't want to lose her.—Mystified in New York.

(A) Some people do not give in. They do not apologize. They never admit they can be wrong on any point.

Some even demand agreement of their friends, or at least silence, when their friends KNOW they are wrong.

Never agree with this girl when she insists that something you KNOW is wrong is right. If she demands this kind of "loyalty," then her friendship could be costly to you. It could damage your character and your reputation.

My advice is that even if you keep her as a friend you concentrate less on her and share your friendship with other more reasonable girls.

Senate Approves Weapons Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $21-billion weapons authorization bill that requires a 156,100-man reduction in military manpower and a partial pullback from overseas bases.

But before Monday's 91 to 7 vote that sent the bill to conference with the House, senators rejected a $500-million cut that was offered as a weapon against inflation.

By a 51 to 47 vote, the Senate first approved the reduction in spending authority. Minutes later, the action was overturned by an identical vote.

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., sponsors of the reduction amendment, said the Defense Department should share in the cuts if the $268.7-billion spending ceiling for this fiscal year is to be upheld.

Congress and Nixon have agreed to the ceiling as a tool in the war on inflation.

But Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said the across-the-board cut would undo months of work put into the bill by the panel.

Through the nine days of debate, sponsors of the committee bill argued that further cuts would jeopardize U.S. security and hinder impending negotiations with the Soviet Union for arms and troop reductions.

The final Senate bill is virtually identical to the one drawn by the committee and is $550 million above what the House voted.

The notable change from the committee bill is an amendment added on the floor by Humphrey and Byrd, requiring a 110,000-man reduction in the number of land-based American troops in foreign countries by Dec. 31, 1975.

The committee mandated, and the Senate agreed to, a cut of 156,100 personnel in uniformed manpower by next June 30.

The bill passed by the House calls for neither a troop cutback nor a withdrawal from foreign bases.

The Senate bill gives the Pentagon virtually all the weapons systems it requested.

LISTEN WHILE YOU EAT—President and Mrs. Nixon went to a Washington restaurant for dinner on Monday. As they were leaving, the Chief Executive stopped to chat with some of the patrons. Nixon Planning Visit to Italy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, breaking the news to curious Italian tourists, says he plans to visit Western Europe "in about two or three months."

Nixon disclosed his approximate timetable Monday night as he emerged from a downtown restaurant after a day in which he also took a one-hour, 50-minute drive through suburban Northern Virginia and met with the president of the European Common Market.

Nixon, relaxed and smiling, stopped to chat and pose for pictures with some of the 150 persons waiting outside Trader Vic's Restaurant. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe DiMarco, who asked when he planned to visit their Italian homeland.

"In about two or three months," he replied, but gave no elaboration.

Nixon had proclaimed 1973 "the year of Europe" and had proposed a declaration of principles designed to patch cracks in transatlantic relations. Progress on the proposal has been slow, leading to speculation the trip might be postponed until early next year.

With three months left in the year it still is possible Nixon will make the trip before 1974.

Earlier, after what he described as a "frank, concrete and constructive" discussion with Nixon, Common Market President Francois-Xavier Ortoli said he was optimistic his nine-nation trade bloc would come to agreement with the U.S. on a declaration of principles.

Ortoli said all sides were agreed on the need for stability in the world money market and expansion of trade.

Nixon, dressed casually in a deep red sports jacket and black slacks, attended the dinner with his wife, Pat, their daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, and Robert and Cynthia Millighan, friends of the Eisenhowers.

The dinner, a potpourri of Oriental and Polynesian dishes with lobster Cantonese the main course, was the first the Nixons have had in a Washington restaurant since last February.

Leaving the restaurant, Nixon shook hands with numerous diners and stopped to chat with one, Saudi Arabian Ambassador Ibrahim Al-Sowayel.

During the afternoon, Nixon and his top administrative aide, Alexander Haig Jr., made an unannounced limousine tour of Washington's Virginia suburbs.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President "just wanted to take a ride."

In an Oval Office ceremony earlier in the day, Nixon signed legislation formally merging the government's volunteer service programs under an umbrella agency known as "Action."

Nixon created the agency in a 1971 reorganization. It includes such programs as the Peace Corps, Vista, Foster Grandparents and the Service Corps of Retired Executives.

Shultz, Brezhnev in Two-Hour Meeting

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev unexpectedly called U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz in for a meeting here, apparently to discuss difficulties being encountered in granting U.S. trade concessions to the Soviet government.

The two-hour Monday night meeting between Shultz and Brezhnev covered "a wide range of questions concerning Soviet-U.S. relations, including the development of commercial ties," according to Tass, the Soviet news agency.

A spokesman for Shultz said he had no details of the meeting. The secretary has scheduled a news conference for Wednesday, prior to his departure for Washington.

Shultz came to Moscow for the third meeting of the Soviet-American Trade Commission, which opened Monday. Brezhnev's wish to see him so early in his visit appeared to reflect Soviet anxiety over the insistence in the U.S. Congress that the Kremlin must liberalize some of its domestic policies before it can get lower trade barriers.

Majorities in both the House of Representatives and the Senate have declared they would not approve most-favored-nation trading status for the Soviet Union unless Moscow allowed Jews to emigrate freely.

In addition, dissident Soviet intellectuals have gained much publicity in recent months with public statements demanding freedom to criticize their government openly and calling on Americans for support.

Soviet officials say the congressional action is interference in their internal affairs and have waged a bitter press attack against the intellectuals.

No mention was made of the controversy at the trade commission's opening ceremonies Monday morning, but the subject evidently was the most significant on Shultz's agenda.

The Nixon administration committed itself in the landmark trade agreement signed a year ago to end tariff discrimination against the Soviet Union and to grant it most-favored-nation status. Senior Soviet commentators have described this part of the agreement as the key to Soviet-American trade and economic cooperation.

Such trading status has been granted to all non-Communist nations that trade with the United States and to Yugoslavia and Poland.

The Nixon administration has been campaigning among members of Congress for approval of concessions to the Soviet Union without any strings. But friends of the Jews and the dissident intellectuals contend that the Soviet government has more to gain than the United States from Soviet-American trade and the Kremlin should be made to ease its repression.

More Executions in Chile

SANTIAGO (UPI) — The military junta said Monday the head of Chile's Communist party was being tried by a court martial for treason and faced a possible sentence of death by firing squad.

The junta also said nine alleged snipers were executed by firing squads Sunday, raising to 17 the number of summary executions in Chile since the armed forces ousted the late President Salvador Allende Sept. 11.

A junta spokesman said Communist chief Luis Corvalan, 57, captured by an army patrol last Friday, was being tried by an armed forces tribunal at Chile's National Military Academy in Santiago.

The spokesman said Corvalan, who had been No. 2 on the junta's list of 17 most-wanted leftist political activists, faced a maximum sentence of death under martial law provisions imposed in Chile after the ouster of Allende.

The junta said Corvalan, secretary general of the Communist party for 16 years and a former senator, was considered legally responsible for the outlawed party's actions.

The spokesman said charges against Corvalan include treason through obedience to a foreign doctrine, subversion, violation of the arms control law and possible fraud involving firms nationalized during Allende's three-year-old Marxist regime.

The government said Corvalan was seized by authorities during the search of a home of a woman friend in Santiago.

Officials said Carlos Altamirano, head of Allende's Socialist Party and No. 1 on the most-wanted list, was still at large.

Protective Custody Ordered for Boyle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Protective custody by armed federal marshals has been ordered for former United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle, who is recovering from an apparent suicide attempt in a Washington hospital.

The 69-year-old Boyle, under indictment on a conspiracy charge in the murder of his union rival, Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, also had his $50,000 bond temporarily suspended Monday by U.S. Magistrate Arthur Burnett.

Burnett issued both orders after government attorneys said they wanted to prevent any suicide attempt by Boyle, or harm to him by others.

Stephanie DeCoste, public relations official at George Washington University Hospital, testified she received several calls last week involving Boyle, including some that were obscene or violent.

Boyle was moved from the hospital's intensive care section to a private room Sunday, and was reported in "satisfactory condition" today, although "very weak and anemic."

When rushed to the hospital a week ago, the night before he was to face a hearing on possible extradition to Pittsburgh on the conspiracy charge, Boyle was first thought to have suffered a stroke. But his doctor later said a "large overdose" of barbiturates was found in his system.

Dr. Leroy Essig, a Public Health Service physician, told the court Monday the amount found would indicate he took between 35 and 150 capsules of sodium amyltal, depending on the size of the capsules.

Mrs. Antoinette Engbergson of Billings, Mont., Boyle's daughter, testified that her father was afraid the government was "going to put him in jail that day, willy-nilly."

She said Boyle was upset over government news leaks. "He felt this publicity by the federal government was designed to preclude him from having a fair trial," she said.
